Preface

The process of developing this Self- Study Report has been both rigorous and exhilarating. For the first time in our professional lives as teachers in the Delhi University system, we have undertaken a task which has revealed to us the definition and contours of the workplace, the nature of our work in a Higher Education Institution, the role and engagement of the various segments of the community it fosters and their links with the larger world. Nurturing young minds is an end in itself, but to track that growth or indeed sometimes the lack of it, to position and reposition oneself to accommodate its various shades and its twists and turns, is a movement that is rarely experienced in the way it has been in the preparation of this report. In that sense, the Self-Study Report has been a coming together of the philosophy of the institution, the tradition of learning it has generated, the work practices that have evolved and their manifestation in multiple ways over almost a century. It has been a rich learning experience, providing the directions for course-correction and challenging us with the prospect of a mechanism of internal quality assurance. Though the College has these mechanisms available through its departmental committees spread over its different units, the processes delineated by the NAAC and its enabling vocabulary will surely serve as a useful grammar to organize, document, structure, quantify define and evaluate all that we do, in a way that also becomes an exercise in the accountability so crucial to a public-funded institution.

The preparation of this report has been participative, involving the formation of committees undertaking diverse tasks for the purpose, in every department and unit of the College. All these committees have provided inputs to the Steering Committee which organized the information and discussion around the various criteria. We thank each and every colleague involved in the massive exercise of data collection, deliberation and reflection. Over the past three months, the Steering Committee of Dr. Meena Bhargava and Dr. Vinita Sinha, led by its meticulous, diligent and brilliant Co-ordinator, Dr. Vagisha Sharma, has brought the different strands of the narrative of Indraprastha College for Women together in this report. The entire College joins me in thanking the team for executing this onerous task with the utmost transparency and honesty.

Executive Summary

Indraprastha College for Women was founded in 1924 with three students, in a room on the second floor of an old, now heritage, mansion housing the Indraprastha Girls' Senior Secondary School, in Chhipiwara in the Jama Masjid area of Chandni Chowk, in the walled city of old Delhi. The parent school and the College both grew out of the efforts of a group of philanthropists associated with the Theosophical Society of India. They were inspired by Mrs. Annie Besant, also a theosophist, who believed in and promoted education for women in North India, at a time when women were confined to the home and realized their destiny in marriage and motherhood. The growth of the College stated in the proposition - marriage and/or matriculation - is an incredible story of conviction, courage and continuity, intersecting the national movement, the discourse of women's education, educational reforms and the worldwide movement for women's rights. This glorious history and living tradition is the backbone of the College. The vision of the College intensified over the decades, remains focused on the holistic development and empowerment of women. The College not only prepares women for industry and employment, but also to contribute to the corpus of thought and knowledge, to contemplate the life of the mind, without which evolution is not possible. The College believes with its founders that such thought may not always be 'employable', but is always deployable as the basis of all engagement: with the self, society and the soul of the Universe. Educating a woman is educating a family, a generation. Indraprastha College is the first women's college of the University of Delhi (estd. 1922) and a constituent college managed by the Indraprastha Educational Trust. It is registered in the Society's Act of 1946 as the Indraprastha College for Women. There are about 3000 students enrolled in its 14 undergraduate programs and 09 post-graduate courses. Though classes for the latter are held in the parent departments of the University, the College provides academic and infrastructural support to these.

Strengths

The centrality of the growth and empowerment of women to the mission of the College is its major source of strength. Indraprastha College therefore, is organically and naturally aligned with the discourses of marginalization, justice and equity and dedicated to engage with these, in all that it undertakes and does. Located in a beautifully preserved heritage property, the College building complex is enhanced by state-of-the-art infrastructure today. The College is 100% barrier-free and disabled friendly, with additional support provided by its Equal Opportunity Cell and the Enabling Unit, in conformity with its mission to mainstream marginalized sections of society. The institutional goals and objectives are fostered and furthered in a liberal and open space and ambience, which the College believes to be fundamental to growth of any kind, whatsoever. Freedom of expression is encouraged and collective and reflective discussion is treasured at all levels of the College community. The College facilitates all its members with institutional support of all kinds to seize initiative in novel and innovative ways. Students are the prime beneficiaries of this policy and avail the advantages to embark on what are often uncharted paths, in their intellectual and co-curricular pursuits.

The College curriculum focuses on the liberal arts with a wide range of courses in the Humanities, and also includes Mathematics, Computer Science and Commerce. In 1999, responding to the demands of a burgeoning media industry, it introduced the Self-Financed Bachelor of Mass-Media and Mass Communication (BMMMC) course, which has gone on to become a flagship course of the College renamed BA (Hons) Multi-Media and Mass Communication (BMMMC) in October 2014. The philosophy of the Humanities as the prime mover of a liberal education system, is enhanced by the cognitive subjects of Psychology and Mathematics and the pragmatic ones of Commerce and Computer Science. The BMMMC lies on the cusp of disciplines and has been envisioned as an interdisciplinary course, with both theory and application components. Two new Honors Courses, Geography and Sociology are likely to begin from July 2015 with all their attendant domains of knowledge and activity, to enlarge the profile of the College as a liberal arts institution.

The College attracts a wide spectrum of students looking for a well-rounded education. In recognition of the importance of safety and security of women seeking education away from their homes, it has two hostels, the second added by the management in 2009 in response to rising demands. They house students from Kargil to Kerala, Kutch to Kohima, and this demographic diversity united in common pursuits of the life of the College, is in itself a strength translating into the values of cultural diversity and accommodation. The College campus is internationalized and has an International Students Desk.

In all that the College does in its lifelong quest for excellence, it never loses sight of its origins and has preserved the record of its growth in its Museum and Archives which is also a Learning Resource Centre attracting research scholars. It also has a newly established Translation and Translation Studies Centre. Both these centers are potentially important hubs of professional research. The first student journal of the College named CODE, carrying linguistic activity in translation, has just been released. The College has a robust policy of student funding for research activities and is unique in providing research grants under its Centenary Decade Research Grant scheme, to its undergraduates for original and innovative projects. It also recognizes and rewards students for significant achievements, as a result of individual initiatives taken beyond the curriculum. Such students find a place on its prestigious Principal's Honor Roll.

The faculty is immensely talented, multi-dimensional in its knowledge and achievements and dedicated to the profession. A wide range of expertise is present in all its departments. This permits and encourages the crossover of ideas and methodologies across disciplines. The faculty engage with ongoing developments in their chosen disciplines and beyond, and are facilitated to upgrade themselves continually. Their initiatives lead students much beyond the curriculum to unexplored areas. The generosity of their spirit is evident in the time and ways they find to mentor and assist students creating institutional bonds which are legendary and manifest in the alumnae stories.

The motivational policy of the College has encouraged non-teaching staff to acquire higher qualifications, training and skills which have contributed to their professional and personal growth. The College is proactive regarding their aspirations and promotional avenues, and enjoys a relationship of goodwill and camaraderie with its staff which has resulted in rare co-operation and support, which may take it beyond the call of duty, in the various kinds of activities that the College undertakes. The College recognizes and appreciates this formally at all its forums.

The College has adequate numbers of technologically equipped classrooms, and modern laboratories with updated software and hardware. Its spacious library in 3 floors with the ICT center adjoining it, has several thousand titles and e-resources. The College has a conference hall, a seminar room, an audio-visual room, a 586 seat auditorium with sound and light systems. These spaces are installed with fire-fighting systems and apparatus for safety. Though all these spaces are air-conditioned, the College emphasizes sustainable development and uses natural light and renewable sources of energy wherever feasible. It has a vast green cover and rich bio-diversity in its fauna and flora, which is conserved through green practices of plantation drives and awareness workshops. Paper and e-waste are recycled and biological and solid waste management is an ongoing project.

The College has vast playgrounds, a fully equipped Multi-facility Sports Hall with indoor badminton courts, table-tennis, basketball practice court, squash court with a viewing gallery, a yoga and martial arts floor, a chess room, a dance hall, indoor shooting range and a fully equipped fitness center. It is the only women's college with a swimming pool, and one of the two colleges of the University to have it. There is an outdoor rifle range, tennis and basketball courts and the space to offer many games and sports activities.

The co-curricular activities offered in the College expand the curriculum and encourage students to push the limits of their knowledge and skills into tertiary areas and tangential zones, of endorsement or contestation, both equally celebrated in the free and liberal atmosphere of the College. The Student Assembly is a regular feature and a structure within which teachers and students can freely interact and the Khula Manch is an open forum where students may speak on any area of their choice. The Discussion Forum of the College organizes interactive talks with persons of eminence and scholars and the College community. Students are encouraged to give their feedback on their experience of the academic and corporate life of the College, and such feedback is leveraged for improvement of the College infrastructure and services wherever possible. The elected Students' Union of the College has a productive role and positive presence, and works in tandem with teachers and administration to implement the mission of the College.

Extension activities in the College are carried out through its vibrant co-curricular societies. The NCC and NSS units are very active and incorporate the College and national agenda of Service into their activities. The Women's Development Cell and the Gender Sensitization Committee promote activities, including research and awareness and sensitization programs, throughout the year to engage the College community in these crucial discourses. The College also has a well-established North-east Forum, which under the recent directions from the Government of India, acts as the mandatory North-East Society. This society over the years, has taken on the task of focusing on the national and international significance and the cultural diversity of the north-east, through talks, seminars, exhibitions and cultural events which not only help to bring the region into the mainstream of awareness, but also help to reach out to a substantial section of the College community of students from that region. The International Student Society furthers the awareness of diversity organizing activities at its annual festival which showcase the different countries of origin, and hold exhibitions, including that of the respective cuisines served up in national attire. The College offers a wide range of cultural activities and produces its annual student magazine with sections in English, Hindi and Sanskrit, and also along with an audio version of it for visually-challenged students.

A major strength of the College is the support that it receives from its top management in all that it does. The College has a formal statement on Institutional Social Responsibility in its mission tasks, and apart from its extension activities through student units of NCC and NSS and others, has developed two activities which engage its teaching and non-teaching staff in this mission. The employees contribute to raise a corpus of funds to meet the emergent medical needs of College contractual employees, and teachers volunteer their services for educational counselling to the community and to the students of Indraprastha Girls' Senior Secondary School. The College has traditionally enjoyed a productive and reciprocal relationship with its neighborhood and treasures that. It is venue and collaborator in neighborhood initiatives, particularly in the area of health and recreation, and partners in the security, hygiene and cleanliness concerns of the community.

Weaknesses

At the macro-level, the College shares in the systemic weaknesses of the larger structure of higher education of which it is a part. The change in curriculum has been a slow process, and pedagogical strategies are often fossilized. Constrained by the prevalent system of recruitment and promotion, there is often very little space left for genuine appraisals and evaluation which may redress the shortcomings of a system. In the question raised about retaining teaching talent in the College, it has been found that the API system may sometimes obstruct the process because the highest score may not necessarily translate into the better teaching talent.

The limitations of the larger structures within which the College functions governs the availing of opportunities. For example, the College has had in the past 5-6 years many offers for student exchange programs from prestigious institutions abroad. Two constraints have applied. First, a meaningful student exchange implies transfer of credits of the student to the parent College as part of her final assessment. This provision is not there in the system. Then there is the issue of permission of the funding agency which as with most bureaucratic processes is reduced to that. The College has had to defer student exchange programs till these issues are resolved.

At the micro-level, it has been felt from time to time that the College's location off-campus and its 'women only' profile discourages some women from joining it on the basis of perception that it would be a staid, 'old-fashioned' 'kanya mahavidyalaya'. Absence of courses in core sciences may also be perceived as a weakness.

As an old College unused to the demands of modern systems of governance, documentation has not been among its traditional strengths. However, in its transition from the old to newer methods of e-governance, the College has adapted itself to a new work culture of record-keeping and documentation.

As a heritage building, the College functions within limitations of space. This sometimes affects teachers' interaction with student groups that have been swelling in numbers over the years, due to the revision of education policies by the government.

As a constituent College of the University and mindful as we are of the advantages that accrue from that affiliation, we are also constrained by the workings of a system which cannot take specifics of the College on board.

Opportunities

The opportunity to facilitate young women to access its educational offer is the most important one accorded by the College. It does so through its need blind admission policy, whereby all economically disadvantaged candidates who are eligible to be admitted, are financially assisted and admitted forthwith. Access is further promoted by the creation of a barrier-free institution for the differently-abled, and opportunity enhanced by providing total financial assistance and enabling measures like learning aids, equipment, technology, training and transport.

The College further, defines opportunity as the space in which it converts limitations and disadvantages into strengths and advantages. The perceived limitation of being a women's college has been used as an advantage to create a liberating space for young adults where they can undertake the exploration of the world and themselves, in a non-threatening ambience and be exposed to all the exciting opportunities of college life. In the wide range of activities and sports, in the enabling financial assistance policy of the College, in according the maximum flexibility permitted by the system, our young women blossom and train themselves to hold their own anywhere in the world.

Opportunity lies in the interstices and folds of the various disciplines and activities offered in the College and their linkages with the world outside it. It also lies in the realms of knowledge and skills that the faculty brings into the classroom and the institution, having availed of its facilitation for research and development. Many have been able to amplify and enrich the curriculum with extension activities planned around it, which are likely to translate into motivation for specific skill development and consequently, employability and/or research. The latest in these have been the thrust areas of translation and archives which require special interest and skills, and also offer employment opportunities along with the chance to contribute to the corpus of knowledge.

The College is alert to the various opportunities provided by the outreach programs of organizations such as the Election Commission, RBI, NAI, ASI and NGOs active in areas of community research and service, and encourages students to avail of these. It has distinguished alumnae who involve the College in programs which give them the opportunity for grass-root and hands-on experience. The latest is a call from activist alumna and Magsaysay Award winner Dr. Aruna Roy, to students to intern in schools in Rajasthan and parts of North India, as education auditors in government schools to work towards the larger goal of advocating an egalitarian system of school education.

In terms of infrastructure and facilities, the College has continually sought to avail for its young women and employees the best that it can afford. Working with restrictions of campus space, the College has not emphasized curricula in the Sciences which require laboratory space, but instead has extended its range of courses in the Humanities, creating employment opportunities for teachers and technical staff, as well as the possibility of internal collaborations of departments in planning projects and extension activities.

The College encourages its non-teaching staff to raise their level of qualification and enables them to acquire higher education so that they may avail of better employment opportunities, if they so desire. In recent years these numbers have increased. Training programs are also organized in-house and availed of as opportunities for skill enhancement and expertise.

Challenges

The biggest challenge for a liberal institution like Indraprastha College is the reconciliation of constitutional, political and legal rights of young, adult women with the constraints imposed by a society inimical to the very nature of that empowerment. For the institution this translates into the challenge of mapping a liberal, flexible, ideology on to systems of control, not only those present in the social systems which control women, but also those of bureaucratic and institutional structures of control which reflect and often reinforce those operational in society. The big challenge therefore, is for the College to acknowledge the family as a stakeholder in women's education, in the same way that the College is committed and invested in women's education. One of the battles that the College is drawn into, on a daily basis, is the one ensuing from a clash of a young woman's aspirations and right to choose, and parental aspiration which is often in opposition to those. The College believes that this is a challenge of a global nature, one which has to be met also at the level of a nation seeking to define itself along the parameters not only of economic development, but also on the index of human resources and rights.

It is also a challenge to reconcile the discourse of rights with that of responsibility, in the formation of a good citizen and enlightened citizenship. In the rarefied world of higher education that we as liberal intellectuals sometimes construct for ourselves and seek to inhabit, there is often little regard for one's own responsibilities and respect for form and processes lying at the core of values such as transparency and accountability, which are paradoxically upheld as desirable by us. Abstractions cannot and do not negate processes which form the grit, tedium and rigor of these values and are their bedrock. We cannot uphold the value of dynamism and flexibility and refuse to be taken out of our comfort zones of learning and habits of pedagogy. We cannot talk about the 'interdisciplinary' and fail to cognize that it is an ancient art, and that all true learning and knowledge has always been and is always, interdisciplinary.

The challenge facing this College as a Higher Education Institution is to recover the age-old tradition of the artist as artisan, whereby upon fixing the gaze on a block of marble, the figure trapped within is sighted, and the sculptor's tools may chisel away the surrounding rock to reveal the magnificent form that lies within. The challenge is to find that inter-text, the link between the life of the mind and the task of the body, as we help to chalk out the destiny of a young woman realized in a safe and secure society, and her place in the march of a nation and in the world.

CRITERION I

CURRICULAR ASPECTS

1.1 Curriculum planning and implementation

1.1.1 State the vision, mission and objectives of the institution, and describe how these are communicated to the students, teachers, staff and other stakeholders.

Established in 1924, in the movement of nationalist philanthropists for women's education in Delhi, housed in a heritage building, marching towards its centenary, the College is proudly aware of its glorious history and tradition. The institution is the oldest women's college of the University of Delhi.

The Vision of the College is to educate, enable and empower young women, emphasizing the need to mainstream the marginalized and weaker sections among them to ensure justice and equity in society.

The Mission is to steer the education it offers not only to lead to the pragmatic goal of employability, but also to build a life of the mind and sensitize and orient its students to service of the community, in the quest for a better life for society and the world that we inhabit. The College endeavors to nurture confident and responsible citizens who will uphold the values enshrined in the motto of the College 'Truth, Love, Knowledge, Service'. To this end the College's mission statement is set out as definite tasks which define the College's distinctive characteristics in terms of addressing, the students it seeks to serve, the institutions traditions and value orientations, the needs of society and its course for the future. The Mission is dynamic and its tasks are defined and periodically reviewed to meet the challenges and opportunities of changing times.

The Objectives of the College are stated in the tasks of the Mission. The College seeks to inculcate through its programs:

- belief in self as a woman (through enabling strategies and empowerment as women)
- awareness of history, heritage and environment (through its own location within these and its links with global concerns and issues)
- respect and sensitivity for the Other (by exposure to cultural diversity, languages, human rights)
- values of citizenship (civic sense, public conduct, leadership, rights and responsibilities)
- development of presentation and writing skills (by incentives for research and innovation)
- enhancement of employability and life-skills (by organizing hands-on training and workshops)

- holistic development through curricular and co-curricular activities (through mandatory membership and participation in a minimum of two co-curricular activities) in the College.

The College communicates its vision, mission and objectives to all its stakeholders through the College Web-site, College Prospectus, Principal's Annual Report and in all public interfaces between the College and others. Orientation Programs are conducted for new entrants at the level of the College and in the Departments. The regular General Assembly for all students effectively disseminates institutional objectives and obligations. The departmental Student Faculty Committees, Staff Council meetings, regular administrative meetings and public presentations throughout the Semester update all stakeholders.

1.1.2 How does the institution develop and deploy action plans for effective implementation of the curriculum? Give details of the process and substantiate through specific example(s).

The College sets itself the specific objective of implementing the curriculum to operationalize the educational, social and cultural goals of the University's education system at two levels.

- The logistical process which involves a series of specific steps taken at the level of the Staff Council and Departmental Committees to determine the workload, allocate work, recommend recruitment and prepare the time-table.
- To identify extension and tertiary activities that may dovetail into the teaching material and enrich it further. Every department recognizes the space for intervention to enhance and enrich the learning experience through its curriculum and to encourage holistic assimilation of knowledge and learning. Departments undertake educational tours and excursions, talks and discussions and projects and activities that supplement and complement the prescribed curriculum expands in tangential ways.

The Self-Financed Course BA (Hons) Multi-Media and Mass Communication (BMMMC) aims at imparting both theoretical and applied knowledge of the domain of mass media and mass communication. Acquisition of related skills, handling technology and application-based testing to consolidate theoretical learning are essential components of the curriculum. For its effective implementation, the College has a fully-equipped studio, editing bays, and audio-visual production centres. It also makes available cameras and other recording equipment to all students to enable them to undertake their curricular tasks.

The logistical implementation of the curriculum involves three committees of the Staff Council:

- Academic Standards Committee (ASC)
- New Teaching Post Committee (NTPC)
- Time Table Committee (TTC)

The ASC is constituted with a Convener along with one member from each department with Principal in Chair; the NTPC consists of Teachers- in- Charge of all departments with the Vice-Principal as Convener; the TTC comprises one member from each department with the Vice-Principal as Convener and a faculty member as Coordinator.

The ASC decides the options to be offered to the students every semester. Concerned departments hold orientations with their students to help them make informed choices. The options then exercised by students determine the number of sections to be created. On the basis of the data provided by ASC, the NTPC submits the estimated workload of each department and the teacher requirement for the projected semester, in accordance with rules of the University of Delhi. The Conveners of NTPC/TTC scrutinize the workload to recommend the final requirement of teachers for the semester.

The Time Table Committee prepares the time table based on the precise calculations, as per rules of the University of Delhi. This is communicated to all faculty. The TTC is responsible for uploading this information on the College Website for students and for display room-wise time -table at the entrance of all class rooms, at least one week before the beginning of the new semester. In tandem, faculty work plans are submitted and uploaded before the opening of the semester. Such information in place enables smooth and effective conduct of classes in the College.

Within the first fortnight of the opening of the semester, the Academic Calendar and Schedule for submission of Attendance and Internal Assessment data are issued by the ASC. Departmental academic tasks and activities are planned accordingly.

- The Enabling Unit has employed a resource person who conducts computer training classes for VH students.

1.1.4 Specify the initiatives taken up or contribution made by the institution for effective curriculum delivery and transaction on the Curriculum provided by the affiliating University or other statutory agency.

Details are at 1.1.2. above

Additionally, the University Grants Commission and the University of Delhi sanction some non-teaching posts which help to implement the institutional curriculum delivery. For instance, the earlier post of Systems and Network Administrator and now the post of Senior Technical Assistant provide essential support, indispensable for effective curriculum delivery in the current program and planning. The management of the College continues to retain the Systems and Network post on contractual basis on its assessment for effective running of its vast e-systems.

1.1.5 How does the institution network and interact with beneficiaries such as industry, research bodies and the University in effective operationalization of the curriculum?

- The members of the College GB are closely associated with industry. Their corporate status often helps students seeking entrepreneurial skills and affiliation with industrial houses.
- The institution encourages its stakeholders through personal and professional networks to reach out to industry and other agencies to effectively operationalize the curriculum. It provides the necessary financial and infrastructural support to sustain these outreach efforts.
- The University's Placement Cell organizes regular career fairs where the College sends its students.
- The annual presence of companies such as Wipro, HCL, IBM etc. at the Fairs organized by the Career Guidance & Placement Cell of the College, has served as an interface between the students and industry. It enhances the possibility of employability and provides valuable exposure to students.

- The College through its self-designed BMMC course offers an internship component which serves as an interface with the media and communication industry.
- The College facilitates all those who wish to avail vacation internships with other agencies,
- The College also provides on demand opportunities for students to intern in its Office.
- Field trips are organized by departments to interact with industries and corporate houses
- The College provides opportunities to students of Humanities and Social Sciences in particular to interact with research bodies such as Sahitya Akademi with Hindi Department; English Department with writers and artists, both national and international; History department avails of the opportunities of outreach programs of the Archaeological Survey of India and the National Archives and also academicians of national and international repute.

This 'learning on wheels' offers tremendous opportunity to students to undertake research projects that are region-specific. Students submit proposals and undergo a selection process to avail the opportunity.
- The College participates in 'Antardhvani', the Annual University Festival which provides the College an opportunity to showcase its innovation projects, good practices, achievements, goals and objectives related to the curriculum.
- The College as the first women's college of University of Delhi has contributed to the 'Sound and Light Show' organized by the University as an annual event to enrich students' knowledge of the history of the University and its colleges.
- Principal attends meetings convened by the University authorities in which broad guidelines and general directions on curricular implementation are issued from time to time.

- Student groups are invited to interact online with the Vice-Chancellor through the NKN, or on the university premises specified, to learn about its initiatives plans and projections for students.

1.1.6 What are the contributions of the institution and/or its staff members to the development of the curriculum by University? (number of staff members/ departments represented on the board of studies, students feedback, teacher feedback, stakeholder feedback provided, specific suggestions etc.)

Contributions of the institution and/ or its staff members

- College Faculty members regularly participate in the curriculum development programs initiated by the University. Around 43 faculty members have actively contributed in the formation and restructuring of the curriculum through various committees constituted by University Departments for the purpose.
- Approximately 10 staff members are currently (or formerly) members of Board of Research Studies for their departments.
- The College has been selected to be a part of the Meta-College concept of the University on the strength of its self-designed BMMMC Course.
- The College also conducts UGC- funded remedial classes for students who require/requisition them. The College designs the curriculum and implements them
- The College has also introduced the English Language Proficiency Certificate course in the College ELPC program to benefit the students who needed to acquire and reinforce English Language skills. Teachers of the English Department trained under it teach the course at the University. The English Department of the College has structured a language teaching program and appropriate software for the implementation of the course has been procured.

Feedback of Staff and Students on the Curriculum:

- For the erstwhile FYUP, in 2013-14 the Principal of the College arranged a special meeting with teachers and students of the departments to collect feedback. Based on the feedback, the College enumerated the weaknesses and advantages of FYUP. The Principal communicated feedback obtained from the teachers and student bodies in the formal interactions with the Vice-Chancellor and his team. The College suggested the requirement of a single project of interdisciplinary nature for Foundation Courses instead of multiple ones. The University permitted this modification.

- The College has designed a feed-back form to be duly filled by the students as an assessment of the teaching program and earmarked a day on its event calendar.

1.1.7 Does the institution develop curriculum for any of the courses offered (other than those under the purview of the affiliating University) by it? If yes, give details on the process ('Needs Assessment', design, development and planning) and the courses for which the curriculum has been developed.

The College develops the curriculum for its Self-Financing Course, B.A. Hons. Multi-Media and Mass Communication (BMMMC). In 1999, the College was granted permission to start the Bachelor of Mass Media and Mass Communication course. It became the only College to offer this course and that position continues. The curriculum was prepared by the College teachers from various departments in collaboration with media professionals from the industry, under the Faculty of Applied Social Sciences and Humanities (FASSH), University of Delhi. The Course ran very successfully for a decade responding to the demand of skills aligned to a nascent and the then burgeoning media industry in India.

In 2010 the College developed a new curriculum for the Course driven by the assessment that

- a curriculum related to a dynamic and technologically protean industry like media, should undergo revision and be updated at least every three years;
- media and communication studies had grown by leaps and bounds, inflected with ideologies and politics and these global developments and trends could not be ignored;
- not only had technology grown but also a theory of technology and the two were inseparable for an understanding of the communication and media industry;
- there were many institutes offering diplomas which approximated the course of study of the BMMMC;
- the course should have the gravity and substance of a B.A. Honors course offered within the University of Delhi and thus its academic content and pedagogy must be revamped and made substantial for it to be claimed as one;
- the College was focused not only on creating media professionals but also intellectuals who would fill the lacuna in the field by becoming teachers of media and communication.

The design of the Course was structurally provided by the dictates of the semesterization of undergraduate programs in the University at that time and had 24 units like all UG courses. The Course was always a semester system but the number of papers per semester was rationalized for equity and balance. Also, there was consolidation of the theoretical component. The Course in every unit gave some theoretically important concepts and vocabulary which promoted a global comprehension and dialogue and this was then balanced with the practical/application component, geared toward the local industry, though at all times the grammar of technology was global and universal. Keeping the fast emerging trends in the domain, the really innovative idea in the design was to have a paper/unit with flexible content, to be determined as per topical and urgent issues in media and communication.

The Course was developed with teachers of media and communication from the College, University of Delhi and Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi, and media practitioners and industry representatives. It took into consideration culture and communication, the new and alternative media, globalization and mass media communication, corporate communication, development communication, environmental issues in communication and so on and had a component of hard core application by insisting on hands-on production. There was an internship component factored in to promote industry interaction with students. Most importantly, a methodology paper was introduced at the level of first year in order to orient students to surveys, questionnaires, ethnographic studies etc. which are important skills in media and communication.

Planning the implementation of the revised syllabus meant planning infrastructure in alignment with its demands and reviewing recruitment of teachers. The infrastructure is formidable with a studio, editing bays, computers, cameras and production related equipment and technically qualified staff to guide floor production. With the revised course the equipment and infrastructure has been updated and expanded. Now syllabus revision is being planned for implementation in July 2015.

1.1.8 How does institution analyze/ensure that the stated objectives of curriculum are achieved in the course of implementation?

There is no formal restatement of the objectives of curriculum after the latter is given by the University. However, the College has mechanisms whereby:

- The Principal closely monitors and reviews academic progression and implementation through the Monitoring Committee which receives feedback from the Academic Standards Committee.
- The ASC ensures that the Academic Calendar, declared at the beginning of the semester, is adhered to in all respects.

- The departmental committees analyze and moderate the results of class tests that serve as part of Internal Assessment. This serves as a feed-back for revising the pedagogy.
- The departments engage in a comprehensive comparative analysis of college results at the University level at the end of the semester. This ensures the critical assessment of teaching-learning practices.
- At the end of each academic session, the Principal convenes an Academic Review with teachers to discuss academic planning and devise/revise pedagogical strategies based on the faculty's experience and feedback, which may be implemented in the following session. The Staff Council meeting at the opening of the session recapitulates the decisions taken for implementation.

1.2 Academic Flexibility

1.2.1 Specifying the goals and objectives give details of the certificate/ diploma/ skill development courses etc. offered by the institution.

The College under various initiatives of the UGC has availed of Application, Skill-based and Vocational options in its courses, whose goals and objectives are in alignment with those of parent bodies. These courses were introduced to enhance the opportunities that the College made available to an increasing number of women desirous to enter the challenging world of burgeoning technologies. Two of these courses run as full-fledged honors programs - the BMMMC and B.Sc./ B.Tech. Computer Science. Others offer compulsory/optional courses to cater to students at the level of BA Program and some honors courses. The details of these are as follows:

Discipline Courses in B.A. Program on -

- Human Resource Management (earlier called IRPM)
- Computer Science
- Family and Child Welfare

Application Course in B.A. Program on -

- Mass Communication
- Creative Writing
- Hindi/English Translation

- Computer Applications

- Family and Child Development

B.A. Hindi (Hons) courses on -

1.2.2 Does the institution offer programs that facilitate twin degree? If yes, give details.

Not Applicable.

1.2.3 Give details on the various institutional provisions with reference to academic flexibility and how it has been helpful to students in terms of skills development, academic mobility, progression to higher studies and improved potential for employability.

The College makes continual efforts to expand the range of opportunities to its students in order to enhance their academic and professional skill. In the current year the College has already been inspected for two new courses, B.A. (Hons) in Geography and Sociology. These opportunities are also available through the programs in the College which are as follows:

- B.A. Hons. in: Economics, English, Hindi, History, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Multi Media and Mass Communication, Sanskrit,
- B.Sc. Hons in: Computer Science, Mathematics
- B. Com. (Hons)
- B.A. Program

Through these programs various options which promote academic flexibility and skill development for student progression and improved employability skills are provided. For instance, along with the main papers of their chosen subject for degree courses (except Computer Science, MMMC) all students have to opt for language and interdisciplinary courses, as follows:

- Two Language Courses (to be chosen from English, Hindi and Sanskrit) one as Qualifying Language and the other as Credit Language.

 - Social Enquiry.

- In Semester V, each student has to choose one of the following Application Course (AC):

- Compulsory Course in Environmental Studies (EVS):

The University of Delhi introduced a compulsory course in 'Environmental Studies' from July 2014. The paper is compulsory for the first year students. Though the course is a non-credit course, each student has to secure qualifying marks in it – a necessary requirement for Honors degree.

- Lateral and Vertical mobility:

On completion of the Honors Program in a particular discipline, the students can undertake Post-graduate studies in the same discipline or any other relevant subject. The students of BA Program have the option of pursuing the Post-graduate program in any of the four disciplines that they may have opted for at the undergraduate level.

- Enrichment Courses:

- Application Courses offered as part of BA Program curriculum increase the possibility of employment.
- The College organizes special classes for students who require/ requisition additional academic assistance.
- Departmental Academic Societies arrange talks, workshops, conferences and seminars related to their discipline.
- Some departments routinely avail of the outreach programs of bodies such as the ASI, NAI, RBI to enrich the prescribed curriculum.

1.2.4 Does the institution offer self-financed programs? If 'yes', list them and indicate how they differ from other programs, with reference to admission, curriculum, fee structure, teacher qualification, salary etc.

The College offers the self-financed course BA Honours Mass Media and Mass Communication (BMMMC) now renamed BA Honours Multi Media and Mass Communication (BMMMC). It began in 1999 under the UGC's applied and vocational program offer to colleges. Identifying and responding to the demands of the burgeoning media industry, the College in a visionary move, offered this course which has since become a flagship program of the College. Indraprastha College is the only one in the University of Delhi to run the program. It is conceived as a six-semester program and conducts its own admission process, examination and evaluation, supervised by the University, which issues the degree. The Course has been selected to be a part of the Meta-College concept of the University of Delhi.

- It differs from other programs in that it is by definition an inter-disciplinary program. It has strong application content with emphasis on hands-on training in the technology and techniques of the domain, along with the theoretical underpinnings. The course has been conceived and developed by the College and duly passed in the Academic Council and the Executive Council, University of Delhi. The Expert committee designing the curriculum has academics and practitioners from the media industry. (In 2013, the University merged this unique course with the Journalism Course of five other Colleges and renamed it Bachelor of Journalism and Mass Communication (BJMC). A new curriculum was developed. This reverted to BMMMC when the FYUP was rolled back in 2014.)
- The College has been aided to set up its own infrastructure to run the course. It has a spacious video recording studio, PCR, audio recording studio, editing bays equipped with latest cameras, editing machines (linear as well as non-linear and other machinery. the studio equipment. Software is updated as per the need of the course. There is enough equipment for all students to receive hands-on experience.
- Whereas the admission to other courses in the College is based on a cut off percentage, admission to the BMMMC was initially a three tier process of entrance exams in two rounds and an interview. In 2010 the syllabus was revised and the interview component was dropped from the entrance process. The first round was one of Multiple Choice questions on General Knowledge, General English and Current Affairs. The second round was descriptive with a Critical Analysis paper in English. Eligible students after the 10+2 exams satisfying the minimum eligibility apply. Since the last two years the admission has been on the basis of cut-offs.
- As it is a self-financing course the fee structure is different from that of other courses. The total expenditure incurred on the course e.g. equipment, salaries of the teaching staff, and technical assistants, honorarium paid to experts from the industry for conducting workshops, maintenance etc. have to be paid from the fee collected from the students.

- The teachers and technical staff appointed for running the course are on contract or on guest basis. The College makes all efforts to appoint suitable persons as per the UGC guidelines, but the nature of the course necessitates flexibility in the matter as expertise required is often of a technical nature. Salaries are consolidated amounts and are comparable to the entry level amount of the UGC grades but the College reserves the right under directions from the management, to pay as per expertise and other related logistics of classes, hours etc.
- This is one course where there is a continuous interaction with the industry. Students who graduate are fully equipped to join a profession of their choice in any field of media and communication. The placement rate is very high where students have joined the media industry as cinematographers, advertising professionals, journalists, film makers, directors, and corporate sector professionals in the communication departments. Many have gone on to pursue a higher degree

1.2.5 Does the College provide additional skill oriented programs, relevant to regional and global employment markets? If ‘yes’, provide details of such programs and the beneficiaries.

There are no separate programs but some papers are offered as part of the curriculum that adds to skill development and employability. The details are at 1.2.1. above.

1.2.6 Does the University provide for the flexibility of combining the conventional face-to-face and Distance Mode of Education for students to choose the courses/combination of their choice? If ‘yes’, how does the institution take advantage of such provisions for the benefit of students?

The University ordinances do not provide the flexibility to the Colleges. The students, however, enjoy the facility of free access to e-lessons uploaded by the Institute of Life Long Learning (ILLL) on DU intranet, accessible from the College.

1.3 Curriculum Enrichment

1.3.1 Describe the efforts made by the institution to supplement the University’s Curriculum to ensure that the academic programs and Institution’s goals and objectives are integrated?

- The University curriculum is supplemented by organizing Field Trips, Workshops, Seminars and Conferences with external experts from various fields both at the department level and as inter-disciplinary activities of the College.
- The College encourages educational/academic field trips and Students' Projects worked into the Academic Calendar.
- The College also organizes remedial classes, if required by the students.
- Co- Curricular tasks, inter-college and intra-college activities are organized by the different societies of the institution to align with the academic programs and institutional goals.
- Societies such as Gandhi Study Circle organize Readings on Gandhi, Round Table Conferences and Commemorative Lectures on Gandhi. The North East Society and International Students Desk organize festivals that showcase cultural diversity. Women's Development Cell, Gender Sensitization Committee, ECO Club and Discussion Forum are amongst the other active societies that organize events periodically to spread awareness amongst students on women empowerment, gender, ecological, environmental and other contemporary issues.

1.3.2 What are the efforts made by the institution to enrich and organize the curriculum to enhance the experiences of the students so as to cope with the needs of the dynamic employment market?

Field visit and interaction with industry through seminars, conferences and talks are organized to enrich student's knowledge of their discipline. Student internship opportunities are facilitated in the period when teaching is suspended. The College and the students are aware of the needs of the employment market.

1.3.3 Enumerate the efforts made by the institution to integrate the cross cutting issues such as Gender, Climate Change, Environmental Education, Human Rights, ICT etc. into the curriculum?

Besides theoretical dealing with cross-cutting issues in the class room, the practical knowledge of the same is provided through activities organized by different student societies as mentioned above. Student Projects, Seminar Papers and Class Room Presentations along with Field Trips give the scope to integrate and amplify such knowledge.

1.3.4 What are the various value-added courses/enrichment programs offered to ensure holistic development of students?

- Moral & ethical values:

- Employable and life skills:
- Better career options:
- Community orientation:

The College does not consider the above-defined categories to be mutually exclusive. Moral, ethical and community values form the basis of all its programs.

- The College however, does identify specific personalities, events or areas around which these values may be studied, inculcated and/or reinforced. Mahatma Gandhi is one such figure around whom the question of ethical action, morality and community are explored. Apart from the academic course on Reading Gandhi, Gandhi and the Contemporary World, the Integrating Mind Body Heart (IMBH) course with Gandhi's autobiography as the core, in the erstwhile FYUP, gave a fillip to explorations around him. In the Centenary Decade of the College a Round Table Conference on Gandhi for Undergraduate students has been introduced in the College since 2014. In 2015, the College has organized a series of monthly lectures to commemorate 100 years of the Return of Mahatma Gandhi to India from South Africa. Regular presentations on Gandhi and examples from his life are formally observed by the College on Gandhi Jayanti and Martyr's Day along with exhibition of photographs and lec-dems on charkha spinning etc.
- The institution maintains full-fledged NCC and NSS units that function along activities and projects that are oriented towards community and inculcate moral and ethical values amongst students. These also give an impetus to employable and life skills. Along with the CGPC these activities also provide avenues for employment.
- Student orientation on issues concerning women, gender and environment through active student societies like WDC, GSC and ECO Club contribute to a holistic personality development.
- Career fair is an annual feature in the College to acquaint our students with better career options and make informed choices thereof.
- Community Projects undertaken by students under ENACTUS and with other NGOs like Pravah and Learn India are encouraged and facilitated by the College.
- Teach India project.

1.3.5 Citing a few examples enumerate on the extent of use of the feedback from stakeholders in enriching the curriculum?

- To test the success of pedagogies, student response is sought in forums like the Student Faculty Committee meetings, discussions within the Academic and Extra-Curricular Activity Societies, Student Assembly with the Principal.
- Such meetings often result in organization of commemorative lectures, workshops on theatre, editorial and translation skills, convening poets' meet, film screening and discussion, academic tours to museums, monuments, different kinds of archives and non-governmental organizations.
- The ASC of the College organizes Student Orientations to enable students to make informed choices of the inter-disciplinary courses they pursue in the ensuing semesters. Medium based sections are created to adapt to the linguistic ability of the students.
- Annual Academic Review convened by the Principal takes into account feedback from stakeholders which is useful for purposes of revisiting pedagogical practices of the class room.

1.3.6 How does the institution monitor and evaluate the quality of its enrichment programs?

Staff Council Committee reports discussed in the Staff Council meetings serve as a measure for evaluating performances and programs in practice. Departmental meetings are held to moderate internal assessment evaluation done by teachers. Principal's interaction with the general body of students is a means for informing and evoking responses about the methods of curriculum enrichment both proposed and in force. The newly introduced student feedback form is a valuable exercise for ascertaining the pedagogy and student-teacher relationship.

1.4 Feedback System

1.4.1 What are the contributions of the institution in the design and development of the curriculum prepared by the University?

- Teachers from the College are regularly invited by the parent departments of the University to give their inputs in the development of the curriculum.
- Around 35 staff members across disciplines were involved in preparing the under-graduate syllabus that was introduced in the Semester system/ FYUP.
- The MMMC course is created and upgraded by the College under the supervision of the Principal as Head of the Department. The Department has contributed in the working groups of the syllabus committee to draft the syllabus for the Bachelor of Journalism and Mass Communication (BJMC) course in 2013.

- College faculty has also contributed to the development of e-content for ILL, DU and the UGC sponsored program e-pathshala.
- Two teachers were on deputation and served as consultants on the curriculum committee of Cluster Innovation Center (CIC) of University of Delhi.
- College faculty also engages with the designing of post-graduate curriculum at the University.
- The Syllabus of the BMMC Course developed by the College has been found significant enough for it to become a part of the Meta –College concept of the University of Delhi and students from the University's Cluster Innovation Centre join the College to enroll in this course.

1.4.2 Is there a formal mechanism to obtain feedback from students and stakeholders on Curriculum? If 'yes', how is it communicated to the University and made use internally for curriculum enrichment and introducing changes/ new programs?

The College has several formal mechanisms to obtain student and teacher feedback on curriculum.

- A student feedback proforma has been introduced. Feedback received is expected to be used to leverage pedagogy and curriculum enrichment topics and tasks after due evaluation.
- The College has always had a system of receiving feedback through the SFC meetings and classroom interactions.
- Teacher feedback on curriculum is received within the frame work of the Staff Council and the Annual Academic Review meetings.
- Teachers also have the opportunity to give feedback directly to their parent departments in the University specially when they are invited to develop/ revise curriculum.
- The student and the teacher feedback is comprehensively considered in the ASC meetings internally, and is an output into the choice of options/ new programs that the College may offer and for planning other curriculum enrichment extension activities.
- In the academic year 2013-14, the Principal conducted meetings with students and faculty to collect feedback on FYUP. An official document of suggestions/ objections was prepared and formally communicated to the University and also to the inspection teams that came from the University from time to time. During the University festival 'Antardhvani' when FYUP was one of the themes, the College produced a brochure for the University which carried its feedback.
- Free articulation of views is encouraged amongst all stakeholders by inviting them to write to the Principal via email on ipc1924@gmail.com. Students may also represent to the Principal directly, if they so wish. Such representations are addressed by the Principal through meetings with student and teacher bodies.

1.4.3 How many new programs/ Courses were introduced by the institution during the last four years? What was the rationale for introducing new courses/ programs?

The College has applied to introduce Sociology and Geography in its BA Honors programs. It has been inspected by the respective department committees and is awaiting response from the University for implementation from July 2015. The rationale for introducing these courses were as follows:

- As a liberal arts College, it would like to expand and enrich the range of its programs in the Social Sciences and Humanities. The chosen courses which lie at the cusp of inter-disciplines, push back the limits of curricular requirements, which is important to expand the horizons of thought and the field of action.
- Secondly, the opportunities that the courses open up for students in terms of research and development and employment are ample.
- Thirdly, the awareness and sensitivity developed through the very nature of the programs are self-rewarding and prepare one for life.
- Geography, Environmental Studies and the ECO Club may operate as a cluster to organize tertiary activities in the College which will touch all department and their activities.
- Similarly, Sociology can team up with almost all the disciplines in the College to create exciting academic and pragmatic possibilities through joint projects to map emergent contemporary issues.
- The important contribution of both would be in terms of clearly defined methodologies and a global vocabulary to develop research and presentation skills which can be shared with all students.

Any other relevant information regarding curricular aspects which the College would like to include.

- With the newly built Translation and Translation Studies Centre and Museum, Archives and Learning Resource Centre, an impetus is being provided to research and independent learning. These new lines of activity which build awareness and develop skills around specialized and related areas, also lead to employability.

- The Management has also approved short term training for students in writing and editing skills and public speaking, on the College's assessment that such training will contribute importantly to the holistic development of students.
- The Additional Skills Development Committee has also recommended a two day orientation in situ for students of History, under the outreach activities of the National Archives of India, New Delhi.

Given the constraints of curricular design, all other aspects, flexibility, range and variety are brought in through co-curricular mechanisms and extension activities.

CRITERION II

TEACHING - LEARNING AND EVALUATION

2.1 Student Enrollment and Profile

2.1.1 How does the College ensure publicity and transparency in the admission process?

Publicity:

- The admission process of the College is as per the University guidelines. The College profile with all updates is announced and displayed on the College Website with a link to the University Website.
- Besides, to establish the admission process, the College publishes its Prospectus which contains all details of the admission process and rules and regulations governing it. The Prospectus notifies the College profile in detail and it is also made available online in the public domain.
- A separate Prospectus for Kalawati Gupta Hostel and Indraprastha College Women's Hostel is released to notify the procedure of admission to the Hostels and rules governing them to help students to make informed choices.
- Voluntary media coverage is also a source of publicity for the College.
- Open days are also organized whenever the need is felt. The Principals of various colleges are invited to Open House meets organized by University of Delhi to inform the public about the Colleges.
- In addition to all these, the College also runs a Helpdesk/ Counseling desk in the College premises for aspirants, as part of the Admission Process..

Transparency:

- Once the process of admission governed by the rules, regulations and policy is notified, the College ensures transparency by strictly adhering to procedure.
- Its internal Admission Committee meets every day when necessary, or at the end of every list, to determine cut-offs collectively and every decision is entered as Minutes.
- The College displays the position and updates regarding available vacancies, categories, fees and processes regarding payment and cancellation.
- The College ensures that an Admission Grievance Cell and a cell for Special Categories Counseling is set up and publicized as per University directives.
- Information and process governing Sports Category admissions too are notified in advance and done in full public view. Video recordings are made and the Sports Admission Committee chaired by the Principal, minutes all proceedings and decisions.
- The entire process of admission in all categories is closely monitored by the administration and scrutinized by the University on a regular basis.

2.1.2 Explain in detail the criteria adopted and process of admission (Ex. (i) merit (ii) common admission test conducted by state agencies and national agencies (iii) combination of merit and entrance test or merit, entrance test and interview (iv) any other) for various programs of the institution.

UG Courses: The College follows the admission rules framed by the University. Based on CBSE and ICSE and other Board results, merit is the criteria for admissions.

PG Courses: The College has no control over admissions to the Post-Graduate courses. The University departments allot colleges to the students. The College is obliged to admit the students against the fixed number of seats in every subject.

2.1.3 Give the minimum and maximum percentage of marks for admission at entry level for each of the programs offered by the College and provide a comparison with the other colleges of the affiliating University within the city/ district.

See Table 01

2.1.4 Is there a mechanism in the institution to review the admission process and student profile annually? If 'yes', what is the outcome of such an effort and how has it contributed to the improvement of the process?

- The admission process is governed by the University guidelines. All departments have the autonomy to fix their criteria. The Cut-off is based on certain parameters related to categories. Upon completion of admissions, the Admission Committee submits a comprehensive report to the Staff Council for further deliberation. Decisions are taken for introducing changes, if any, in the admission policy for the next year.
- Review of the admission process was possible in the Self-Financing Course of BMMC where the entrance examination and interview were dropped in phases. The interview was dropped as it privileged only those students who were articulate, though the discipline had space for much silent work. It minimized the possibility of subjective evaluation through a single encounter. The entrance test was dropped because the effort to organize one was not commensurate with either the numbers or the quality of students admitted. The College is satisfied with admissions made without these elements, purely on the basis of merit and cut-offs, but will take this up for review in the end-semester assessment, if required.

2.1.5 Reflecting on the strategies adopted to increase/ improve access for the following categories of students, enumerate on how the admission policy of the institution and its student profiles demonstrate/ reflect the National commitment to diversity and inclusion: SC/ST, OBC, Women, Differently abled, Economically weaker sections, Minority community, Any other.

- The National Policy of affirmative action is reflected in the College's pro-active approach to the marginalized and economically and socially backward sections of society, and these are often also the economically weaker ones.
- The admission policy of the College has been need-blind since 2012 and no eligible student is turned away for want of resources.
- The College permits waivers and marked down fees at admission time itself on case to case basis and need based assessment.
- It also offers out-of-turn hostel facilities to meritorious students, fully financed or subsidized, if they cannot afford to stay in Delhi to study. Such students are required to show adequate attendance in the classroom and a consistently good academic record for their assistance to continue.
- Admission policy however remains as per rules on merit as the College is obliged to follow the University's directive on the matter. For the differently-abled, the College has made super-numerary admissions in the hostels and the number of VH candidates have increased.
- Since the College is 100% barrier free the differently-abled are seen to prefer it. Even before the University announced fee discounts and waivers for the differently-abled, the College had initiated these measures amongst its differently-abled students. Sports facilities are created for differently-abled students and they have often earned laurels for the College in return.
- The College because of its location off-campus and vicinity to the walled city is the preferred college for the Muslim girls in purdah. The College encourages them to study here by continuing to provide a non-invasive environment.
- The College offers reserved residential facilities to students from remote areas, distant states and conflict-zones and that has brought in students from Kargil to Kerala.

2.1.6 Comment on the trends and reasons of increase/ decrease in demand for various programs offered by the institution during the last four years and actions initiated for improvement.

Students apply to all courses in a given stream, to all colleges. The demand and trend is seasonal and changes or remains the same with every year, for reasons not located in the College. Students take admission wherever they are eligible and sometimes these may not be what they had wanted and where they had wanted. College is thus not in a position to state any demand ratio.

2.2 Catering to Student Diversity

2.2.1 How does the institution cater to the needs of differently-abled students and ensure adherence to government policies in this regard?

- As per national policy, the College fills 3% quota reserved in the PwD category. However, it has been making super-numerary admissions, being in demand for its disabled-friendly reputation.
- The College maintains an Enabling unit to extend all help to the PwD students and also has an active Equal Opportunity Cell too.
- Specifically the College has brought the PwD into the mainstream by:
 - creating barrier free and safe spaces with ramps, track-tiles and elevators.
 - providing technological support like free CD players and laptops fitted with software;
 - making special learning aids available, like a section of Braille books in the Library, daisy books, JAWS etc.
 - imparting training in computers as a special skill;
 - providing mobility training to visually challenged students;
 - organizing special inter-college events for the differently-abled on Sports Day;
 - transferring the College Magazine into a CD for VH students.
 - having orientation programs to disseminate information about events and aids;
 - networking with the peers in the University and ensuring participation by providing transport;
 - providing transport to return home for VH students in the dark, winter exam semester;
 - housing PwD in the Hostel in a space with special assessment for easy evacuation in case of disaster;
 - procuring and upgrading of the latest available technology which may assist living.

2.2.2 Does the institution assess the students' needs in terms of knowledge and skills before the commencement of the program? If 'yes', give details on the process.

Yes, there is the formal collection of data in some areas at the time of admission which helps the College to stream the students along the lines of language competencies. On the basis of this information, if need be, arrangements are made for bilingual classes, separate tutorials for Hindi medium students, remedial classes, communication classes for overseas students.

2.2.3 What are the strategies adopted by the institution to bridge the knowledge gap of the enrolled students (Bridge/Remedial/Add-on/Enrichment Courses, etc.) to enable them to cope with the program of their choice?

Tutorials take place regularly and remedial teaching is undertaken at the College level. To overcome the language barrier, separate Hindi medium sections are created. Workshops, seminars and talks are organized to provide computer literacy to the students.

2.2.4 How does the College sensitize its staff and students on issues such as gender, inclusion, environment etc.?

Various societies such as the Gender Sensitization Committee, ECO Club, Women's Development Cell, NSS and NCC organize a variety of activities including workshops, lectures, talks, films and documentaries for the purpose.

2.2.5 How does the institution identify and respond to special educational/learning needs of advanced learners?

Departments track progress and the College supports and encourages the advanced learners to compete and perform in the larger peer group. They take the lead in academic and extra-curricular activity society initiatives, projects, seminars and conferences. The College encourages and provides financial support to students who undertake research projects at both the national and international levels. The College also rewards merit through its various prizes and scholarships. The Principal's Honor Roll recognizes and rewards individual initiative beyond the curriculum. Programs like the Golden Key International, stream the top 15% of academic achievers to offer specialized workshops, skills and incentives to them, including Scholarships.

2.2.6 How does the institute collect, analyze and use the data and information on the academic performance (through the program duration) of the students at risk of drop out (students from the disadvantaged sections of society, physically challenged, slow learners, economically weaker sections etc. who may discontinue their studies if some sort of support is not provided)?

Internal assessment data is entered by individual departments in the electronic package of student information of the College. Merit or the lack of it is identified, but there is no mechanism in the College whereby interventions are made beyond the usual ones, to identify “students at risk of drop-out”. The students who are likely to/or may drop out due to financial reasons are provided free ships/scholarships by the College. The faculty members, at the personal level, also give financial support to such students. In some cases, if family background is the reason for dropping out, the students are counseled by the department teachers and/or the College Counselor and if the need be, the parents and the family of these students are also counseled.

2.3 Teaching-Learning Process

2.3.1 How does the College plan and organize the teaching, learning and evaluation schedules? (Academic Calendar, teaching plan, evaluation blue print, etc.)

- Adhering to the academic calendar prepared by the University, the College organizes the teaching, learning and evaluation schedule at the departmental levels and at the level of the Staff Council before the beginning of the Semester, and plans ahead at the end of each Semester.
- All information is communicated electronically on the official e-mail id.
- The Time-Table is set in advance by the Time Table Committee and made available to both the teachers and the students at least a week before the beginning of the next semester.
- The Academic Calendar and Schedule for the submission of Internal Assessment by departments is drawn up by the ASC.
- Teaching plans are submitted by individual faculty with the commencement of the session.
- All information is displayed on the College Website and Notice Boards of the College.
- Semester-end evaluation schedule is prepared and notified by the University. It is mandatory for faculty members to participate in it. No leave on the days scheduled for evaluation is permissible without the consent of the Dean Examinations, University of Delhi.
- Evaluation of the Practical Examination, as per the guidelines of the University, is done by both the external and internal examiners.

2.3.2 How does IQAC contribute to improve the teaching-learning process?

The College does not have a formal IQAC but the internal quality of the College in the domain of academics is ensured by the Monitoring Committee and the ASC in consultation with all departments.

- The College has an annual Academic Review in the Staff Council when the academic roadmap and related activities are laid down as annual objectives and the outcomes assessed and reviewed.
- Every department also has an SFC in which the teaching-learning process is planned, described reviewed/reinforced.
- The workload of departments is assessed as per norms. Student options are sought wherever the scope arises. These are incorporated into the logistics of recruitment, work-allocation, availability of infrastructure and human resources.
- The requirement of teaching aids, space and technology as well as of teachers or other support staff is also formulated by these committees.
- There are ASC meetings, at least 3 times in a semester to streamline and address the process of teaching-learning. Meetings can also be requisitioned whenever needed.
- The formalized structure helps to organize the process which all colleagues have found useful to ensure the monitoring of quality.
- Committees of the Staff Council such as Library, Hostel, Sports, General Facilities, Extra-Curricular Activities, Financial Assistance to Teachers, Student Aid, NSS, NCC, WDC, ECO Club, Equal Opportunity Cell, Gender Sensitization Committee, Discussion Forum etc. meet regularly to give their inputs in areas of their operation to monitor the quality of the teaching – learning process.

2.3.3 How is learning made more student-centric? Give details on the subject structures and systems available for teachers to develop skills like interactive learning, collaborative learning and independent learning among students?

- Learning is made more student-centric through more emphasis on student initiatives in presentations, discussions and audio-visual aids.
- As a part of the National Knowledge Network (NKN), the College enjoys several network facilities.
- Classrooms and Labs are equipped with LCD projectors and screens/whiteboards.
- The College campus and the two hostels are Wi-Fi enabled.

- The College library has an ICT center and avails of DELNET, N-LIST, DULS. Computer Training Workshops are organized for both the students and faculty to equip them with latest technologies.
- Laptops are given to students and faculty to facilitate access to the e-resources from the College campus.
- The Innovation Projects awarded to the College by the University foster collaborative learning efficaciously.
- Talks, Seminars and Conferences cut across departments to promote collaborative learning.
- Subject structures are interdisciplinary as are pedagogical strategies. This enjoins upon the teacher the necessity for constant up-gradation and development of interactive skills and knowledge bases.
- The College facilitates teachers to undertake refresher courses and orientation programs to keep abreast of the latest methodologies in pedagogical practices and disciplinary advances. The pedagogical strategies are individual choices.
- However, at the beginning of each semester, the teachers provide a Work Plan to the students that lists the topics to be covered during the semester along with the Reading Lists and relevant web-links.
- The departmental portals on College Website also include links for selective e-lessons/ videos. This encourages and facilitates students to explore the planned curriculum independently.

2.3.4 How does the institution nurture critical thinking, creativity and scientific temper among the students to transform them into life-long learners and innovators?

- The institution inculcates the praxis of critical thinking by encouraging the habit of doubt and skepticism which leads to constant questioning. It nurtures critical thinking by encouraging students to read and expand the domain of their knowledge.
- Scientific temper is developed by facilitating empirical methods of data collection and testing of hypothesis rather than a passive acceptance of received knowledge. Much of this depends on pedagogical strategies and the teachers' own intellectual engagement with these issues.
- The International Award for Young People and the Golden Key International Program are two instances of the mechanisms available in the College to promote life-long-learning and innovation. Both programs also promote leadership qualities.
- The institution motivates students to become life-long learners and innovators through two concrete motivational mechanisms. One is the certification on the Principal's Honor Roll which recognizes the initiative beyond the curriculum and has become a coveted honor for which students strive. The other is the recognition by the leadership and financial support made available to students who have original, innovative ideas to develop them or present them in the peer group. The two mechanisms target excellence but motivational exposure is built into the projected themes of College activities to inspire students to become life-long-learners through talks, conferences, and interactions and through visible examples. In this context the College would like to report that two themes with which it is working this year, namely Visibility of Disability and the Commemorative Monthly Lecture Series on Gandhi (Centenary of his Return to India from South Africa) have both been inspirational and have triggered both curiosity and engagement around them.

2.3.5 What are the technologies and facilities available and used by the faculty for effective teaching? E.g. Virtual laboratories, e-learning-resources from National Program on Technology Enhanced Learning (NPTEL) and National Mission on Education through Information and Communication Technology (NME-ICT), open educational resources, mobile education, etc.

- The College campus has fiber as well as Wi-Fi connectivity.
- Classrooms and Labs have Electronic Projection System.
- Department rooms have a minimum of two Computer Systems with internet connectivity for the exclusive use of the department members.
- Laptops are available in the College office for the use of students and staff members.
- The College Library has collaboration with DELNET, UGC-NLIST and DULS. The e-resources available on these networks are accessible from the College network.
- E-lessons of ILLD, DU are accessible from college.
- College is a part of NKN.
- Virtual Class Room infrastructure and technology is available to both faculty and students.
- Some useful web links are made available on College Website for direct access by students and faculty members.

2.3.6 How are the students and faculty exposed to advanced level of knowledge and skills (blended learning, expert lectures, seminars, workshops etc.)?

- The nature of the Academic Discipline determines the methods of accessing advanced level of knowledge /skills.

- Use of multi-media in learning is a prominent feature of the quasi-application courses in the College which include Psychology, Multi-Media and Mass Communication, Computer Sciences, Commerce, Economics etc.
- The core Humanities are frequently exposed to expert talks and methodologies of analytical thinking and presentation through their Academic Society Meets, Seminars and Workshops.
- Educational field trips are organized by the departments to enhance the practical knowledge of the subject.
- Student exposure through 'Gyanodaya' trips or 'learning on wheels' train journeys organized by the University of Delhi, in which the College has regularly and actively participated.
- Video screening relevant to the curriculum followed by discussions and/or presentations initiated by teachers or an invited expert in the area, encourages critical thinking amongst students.
- The faculty is encouraged to attend Workshops/ Conferences/ Seminars organized by the College or any other agency.
- The College also facilitates teachers to attend Orientation and Refresher Courses arranged by the University/ Academic Staff Colleges.

2.3.7 Detail the process on the academic, personal and psycho-social support and guidance services (professional counseling/ mentoring/ academic advise) provided to students?

Academic Support:

- The College has not formally tracked this in a structured way or defined the above as services as they are regarded to be essential characteristics of teachers and a part of their professional mode of being. For instance, academic counseling is there for all students. Staff members are always available in the hour of need to students for guidance for their entrance tests, for higher studies or choosing an option for the future.
- In Tutorial Classes the teachers interact with smaller groups and help them in their curricular as well as other academic needs. The advance learners and slow learners can interact on one-to one basis without peer pressure.
- The Student Faculty Committee (SFC) is another forum where students could discuss their academic needs like additional titles in library, infrastructure, planning for arrangements of Seminars/ Talks/ Educational trips etc.

Personal and psycho-social support:

- Professional Counseling is provided by the College appointed part-time Counselor at its Centre which is also supported by the Department of Psychology of the College. Several students have availed and benefitted from this service in terms of identifying and solving their personal, emotional, family and career related problems.

- Enabling Unit of the College actively organizes workshops and training programs for the differently-abled and also provides career and psychological support. The regularly held mobility training and computer skill development programs are availed by all the students admitted in the category.
- Financial Support including full fee waivers are provided by the College to 10-15% of its students.

Mentoring:

- Student Societies like the NCC, NSS, ENACTUS, and the ECA function with mentors who are advisors and guides for the various activities and interactions within these.
- All academic societies in the Departments too function with mentors who are available to lead, guide and advise the students to organize, choose and interact.
- The Student Assembly is a forum for both peer mentoring as well as by teachers, including the Principal of the College.

Other Guidance Services:

- Career Guidance and Placement Cell organizes counseling and opportunities to interact with industry/agencies and hosts and holds recruitment drives on a regular basis throughout the year for students of the College. It also offers its premises to a cluster of Colleges in the University as a gesture of good-will to all young people seeking opportunities and careers.
- The International Award for Young People (IAYP), also known as the Duke of Edinburgh Award, is a globally recognized program in which IP College, with which it has a MOU, is the first chapter in the University of Delhi, when the program expanded from schools to colleges in 2010. The IAYP is voluntary, membership-based non-competitive, incremental capacity building activities program. It lays emphasis on the four areas of adventure, service, sport, and skill to be developed till a person reaches 25 years of age and each set of acquisition in the defined areas, is recognized by a Gold, Silver and Bronze Award, conferred on young people annually by the Vice-President of India. The College encourages participation by enabling and facilitating those who wish to participate, even with financial help and dovetailing activities it offers with those required in the IAYP.

- The Golden Key International Program, of which the College is a member, also has a MOU with the University of Delhi. It concentrates on the top 15% of academic achievers who may become its members on payment of a small amount. It organizes leadership programs, skill training workshops and offers prizes and scholarships annually to achievers. Two students from the College have been awarded prizes by the University of Delhi.

2.3.8 Provide details of innovative teaching approaches / methods adopted by the faculty during the last four years? What are the efforts made by the institution to encourage the faculty to adopt new and innovative approaches and the impact of such innovative practices on student learning?

- Innovative teaching methods/ approaches:
 - Collaborative projects wherever the academic space is available for the same, such as Mathematics and Computer Science, English and History and others.

 - Procurement of the latest teaching and referral material in the Library.
 - Spaces of the College are prepared for virtual classes.
- Impact of such innovative practices on student learning:

The institutional ambience is vibrant and brimming with vitality and there is a profusion and proliferation of creativity and capacity to work independently, among students. Students have presented regularly at International Seminars such as PHILHIST and SAESUM in the SAARC countries and have won recognition and prizes. They have published in peer-reviewed journals and ISBN journals.

2.3.9 How are library resources used to augment the teaching-learning process?

The Library in three floors, has been designed and expanded to include electronic learning resources in the ICT Centre. The College Museum and Archives are located in its extension wing and the Translation and Translation Studies Centre on its terrace wing. The Library has been thus conceptualized metaphorically as an ever-expanding space like the realm of knowledge itself, whose limits are not circumscribed. The Library fitted with an elevator provides access to persons on wheelchairs and with other mobility issues. The Library spaces are all air-conditioned and welcoming to students and all learners.

- Library orientations are organized to acquaint new entrants in the College to various facilities and mechanisms to use knowledge resources independently.
- There are computers with OPAC (Online Public Access Catalogue) on each floor.
- All e-resources available on UGC-NLIST, DELNET and DULS are available to college students and staff through the recognized password issued by the College to be used on college intra-net.
- The Library Committee ensures that the library is well-stocked with the reading material required, films and other Audio-visual material required and referred to by students and faculty, both on roles and retired.
- The Book bank located in the Library assists students without financial means to procure text books.
- The ICT center in the Library is used by teachers and students to access e-resources.
- The Library resources are of significant use to students with visual disability. There are special cubicles in the Library equipped with learning aids and special software. Besides these, there are around 118 Braille books.
- The use of the resources in the Translation and Translation Studies Centre in the Library cuts across disciplines and motivates teachers and students to venture and experiment with new areas, techniques and methodologies.
- The presence of the Museum and Archives as a learning resource center encourages students and researchers to revisit their history and heritage.
- Limited photocopying in the Library of referral material is permitted for curricular use.

- The Reading Section provides national newspapers, journals and magazines.
- The library functions throughout the year and closes only for stock-taking.
- The library timings are adjusted during examination days.

2.3.10 Does the institution face any challenges in completing the curriculum within the planned time frame and calendar? If 'yes', elaborate on the challenges encountered and the institutional approach to overcome these.

Advance planning and a weekly semester work plan in coordination with the College Calendar and the University Academic Calendar ensures that courses are completed on time.

2.3.11 How does the institute monitor and evaluate the quality of teaching learning?

The College monitors and evaluates the quality of teaching-learning through SFC and Department meetings. In the department meetings, performance of the students in the internal and semester-end examinations is analyzed. A student feedback proforma has been introduced in this semester to leverage the findings for review of the teaching-learning process. For more details see 2.3.2 above.

2.4 Teacher Quality

2.4.1 Provide the following details and elaborate on the strategies adopted by the College in planning and management (recruitment and retention) of its human resource (qualified and competent teachers) to meet the changing requirements of the curriculum

Highest qualification	Professor *		Associate Professor		Assistant Professor		Total
	M	F	M	F	Male	Female
D.Sc./D.Litt.
Ph.D				30		25	55
M.Phil.				9	1	21	31
PG				2		10	12

Ph.D					5	9	14
M.Phil.					4	13	17
PG					8	14	22
*The post of Professor is not available in Colleges as per DU ordinance

- The College is constrained to recruit as per norms of the University and the UGC, through a structured process designed and monitored by them envisaged in the Selection Committee. This process is transparent as far as the College is concerned. There is no space for strategizing for retention or recruitment, given the adherence to the sanctity of the process. Qualification however, does not ensure competency. The Selection Committee has only the available pool of applicants from which it may legitimately select.

2.4.2 How does the institution cope with the growing demand/ scarcity of qualified senior faculty to teach new programs/ modern areas (emerging areas) of study being introduced (Biotechnology, IT, Bioinformatics etc.)? Provide details on the efforts made by the institution in this direction and the outcome during the last three years.

Not Applicable.

2.4.3 Provide details on staff development programs during the last four years elaborate on the strategies adopted by the institution in enhancing the teacher quality.

(a) Nomination to staff development programs during last four years:

Academic Staff Development Programs	Number of faculty nominated
Refresher Courses	31
HRD programs	NA
Orientation Programs	36
Staff Training conducted by the University	57
Staff Training conducted by other institutions	38
Summer/ Winter schools, workshops, etc.	28 for Foundation courses
*Nominations are rare. Participation in staff development program is largely voluntary and is facilitated by the institution.

(b) Faculty training programs organized by the institution to empower and enable the use of various tools and technology for improved teaching-learning:

- College organizes Capacity Building workshops for ICT periodically, to introduce the staff and students to the new developments in this area. For the purpose, the College invites experts from the relevant fields. Two such workshops held in past years benefitted around 60 faculty members.
- Two batches of one day workshops were organized for Faculty on 'e-Resources - How to Access' in collaboration with the Central Reference Library, DU
- The Internal Assessment (IA) System of the College is completely digitized and faculty members are required to upload the IA marks and class attendance online on the SIS package. The College arranges workshops, at least one per semester, to train and orient the faculty (mainly new appointees).
- A workshop was organized to train faculty members to create Web Portal of their departments and to upload data on it.
- Faculty sent for specialized training to the university or other related organizations are expected to hold in-house training programs to share acquired skills and knowledge.

(c) Percentage of faculty:

Invited as resource persons in Workshops/ Seminars/ Conferences organized by external professional agencies	21%
Participated in external Workshops/ Seminars/ Conferences recognized by national/ international professional bodies	60%
Presented papers in Workshops/ Seminars/ Conferences conducted or recognized by professional agencies	59%

2.4.4 What policies /systems are in place to recharge teachers? (e.g. providing research grants, study leave, support for research and academic publications teaching experience in other national institutions and specialized programs industrial engagements etc.)

- The College encourages and is supportive of all initiatives for professional and academic growth of its staff.
- All policies regarding the above are as per the provisions of the Leave Rules of the University and UGC.
- There is no provision in the College for grants to teachers. However, they are partially supported by the disbursal of funds by the Committee on Financial Aid to Teachers, which considers cases when no other grants are available to them to attend seminars and conferences in the country.
- The College also permits necessary adjustments in the work plan and time table of teachers who are constrained to avail of their qualifications for promotional purposes. It acts as the affiliating institution for visiting scholars and its enrolled and erstwhile teachers in case they wish to avail of fellowships from recognized research bodies/agencies.

2.4.5 Give the number of faculty who received awards/ recognition at the state, national and international level for excellence in teaching during last four years. Enunciate how the institutional culture and environment contributed to such performance/ achievement of the faculty.

- Principal, Dr. Babli Moitra Saraf is the recipient of 27th Dr. S. Radhakrishnan Memorial National Award for Teachers, 2011.
- Ms. Renu Gulati, Department of Commerce, is the recipient of 'Teaching Excellence Award' by University of Delhi, for the Foundation Course 'Business Entrepreneurship and Management', 2014.
- Dr. Raj Chauhan, Department of Sanskrit (retired, March 2012) was awarded 'Sanskrit Samaradhaka Samman' by Delhi Sanskrit Akademi, New Delhi, 2004-2005.
- The following faculty members are recipient of 'Certificate for Distinguished Teacher (2009) of University of Delhi.

S. No.	Department	Faculty Name
1	English, MMMC	Dr. Babli Moitra Saraf
2	English	Ms. Neelima Luthra
3	Hindi	Dr. Harsh Bala Sharma
4	History	Dr. Meena Bhargava
5	Political Science	Dr. Jyoti Trehan Sharma
6		Dr. Shubhra Seth

- The institutional encouragement and positive response to teachers' achievements does act as a support for all those who raise the bar for themselves. The College highlights these in its formal reports and not only facilitates all colleagues but publicly takes pride in their achievements.

2.4.6 Has the institution introduced evaluation of teachers by the students and external peers? If yes, how is the evaluation used for improving the quality of the teaching-learning process?

- The College has introduced a student feedback mechanism but does not yet have an external peer evaluation mechanism.
- Additionally, the College feedback mechanism has already been described in points 1.4.2, 2.3.11.
- The student evaluation is for self-improvement of faculty members. Specific inputs regarding rapport, introduction of more discussion, additional readings, written work etc. are factored into the review of individual pedagogical practices as assessed.
- General pedagogical issues are discussed annually at the Academic Review Meeting of the Staff Council with the Principal in Council, and strategies formulated and implemented as and when required.
- The external peer evaluation is within the Rules and Regulations of the University.
- There is a Self-Assessment Proforma, prescribed by DU, which finally culminates in calculating API (Academic Performance Indicator) score of individual teachers. The teacher is supposed to obtain a minimum prescribed score to maintain his/ her standards for next promotion.

2.5 Evaluation Process and Reforms

2.5.1 How does the institution ensure that the stakeholders of the institution especially students and faculty are aware of the evaluation processes?

Since the College is a constituent college of University of Delhi, the evaluation norms are mainly laid down by DU and are communicated to colleges for compliance. The College follows these in letter and spirit but is free to supplement these to ensure academic standards and transparency.

Stakeholders are apprised of all these norms through the following:

- The College Prospectus/ Handbook contains all relevant information about evaluation process (refer point 5.1.1)
- In the Orientation Program for new entrants in the College and in all departments, the Principal/Teachers-in-charge, explain all rules and regulations especially evaluation processes of the College.

- The Departmental SFCs/ orientation programs are the forums to disseminate all information related to evaluation.
- All communications related to evaluation from DU are communicated to all staff members via email from Principal of the College. If the said information pertains to the students, the same is uploaded on the College Website and displayed on the College notice boards immediately. At times, Teacher-in-Charge of departments are also requested to explain the process/ notification to the students.
- Whenever there are major changes/ deviations, special meetings are arranged by the ASC/ Principal, to explain to the students the latest developments.
- The Staff Council is the forum where the Principal informs the staff about the processes.
- The IA data is uploaded online and the students can verify them at their end.
- The IA data is sent to DU only after each student signs it and verifies it.

2.5.2 What are the major evaluation reforms of the University that the institute has adopted and what are the reforms initiated by the institute on its own?

The College is mandatorily obliged to adopt all evaluation directives of the University. These include the system of Internal Assessment, Internal Evaluation of Foundation Courses along the norms set by the University under the erstwhile FYUP. The College had the autonomy under FYUP to notify its Oversight Mechanism which was its intervention in the evaluation process.

The College has also introduced the student attendance factor in all assessment and for appearance in the Practical exam, wherever applicable, to be an essential component of course requirement in order to qualify as passed.

In addition, in the newly introduced EVS course which is non-credit, the College has introduced the component of Attendance carrying 10 marks out of the IA of 25 marks mandated by the University.

2.5.3 How does the institution ensure effective implementation of the evaluation reforms of the University and those initiated by the institution on its own?

- In each situation of reforms/ changes by DU for IA, the College initiated the mechanisms to implement the sent rules effectively.
- The schedules for Class Test/ Class presentations/ Submission of Assignments (as the case may be) are notified to the students well in advance and are uploaded on the College Website as an internal arrangement of the College. For instance, guidelines were made and displayed prominently for the 55 marks evaluation of Foundation Courses under the FYUP in 2013-14 with information to the University. A Marks Award Committee was constituted internally to evolve the mechanism of the award of 8 Marks per FC to a student under special provisions mandated by the University.

- Each Department has an IA Moderation Committee which is responsible for submitting the correct/ verified IA of their departmental students to the College office.
- There is a Monitoring Committee for IA which is an interface between the College and DU for the scrutiny of all IA and discrepancies and grievances of students, if and when they arise.
- As described in point 2.5.1 above, the College informs its stakeholders about the University policies and college policies related to evaluation well in advance through College Prospectus/Handbook/ College Website/ Work Plan of teachers.
- The Schedules/ dates mentioned in the announced work-plan of each teacher are adhered to. The Principal through the ASC monitors the effective implementation of the schedule.
- Informal/ formal feedback of students to the Principal/ department members and a grievance redressal schedule developed by the College and the University help in the effective implementation of all evaluation process.
- All data submitted by staff is available online to the students, faculty, Principal and all other stakeholders. Transparency is ensured and is also the end of an effective implementation of evaluation reforms..

2.5.4 Provide details on the formative and summative assessment approaches adopted to measure student achievements. Cite a few examples which have positively impacted the system.

Formative Assessment:

There is provision of IA of 25% per paper in each program out of which 5% weightage is for attendance, 10% for class test and 10% for assignments. Therefore:

- Teachers take more than one class test to prepare students for exams.
- Students choose one from a wide range of assignment topics.
- Some teachers encourage students to write more assignments to enhance their writing/ presentation skills.
- Weightage attached to attendance acts as an incentive for regularity and academic discipline
- Students are encouraged to independently explore the contents within the curriculum.

Summative Assessment:

The end semester examination along with the Internal Assessment is the summative assessment for the students.

2.5.5 Detail on the significant improvements made in ensuring rigor and transparency in the internal assessment during the last four years and weightages assigned for the overall developments of students (weightage for behavioral aspects, independent learning, communication skills etc.)

- Weightage for behavioral aspects is not specifically mentioned in the DU ordinance and hence college cannot introduce this parameter, except as academic discipline in attendance and submission schedules.
- Weightage of communication skills and independent learning are discipline specific and wherever such components are included, the teachers inform these norms in advance.
- Electronic display of Internal Assessment data in the Student Information System has been a major step to ensure transparency and expeditious redressal of grievances, if any. To maintain transparency there are two committees – the IA moderation committee at the department level and the Monitoring Committee which works at the College level. The IA data is available online and students can approach the two committees in case of any problem/grievance.
- All stakeholders remain well informed and aware about the methodology of evaluation and its outcome in the public domain. (Details at 2.5.1 & 2.5.2 above). Transparency of the process is thus maintained and ensured.

2.5.6 What are the graduate attributes specified by the College/ affiliating University? How does the College ensure the attainment of these by the students?

The University considers the completion of the requirements of its curriculum and passing the final exam to be the graduate attributes of a course.

The College however, would like to additionally, propose basic reading/comprehension, writing and presentation skills for a student to be qualified as a graduate. It has been found that these are the areas in which not only students of the College, but also the group as a feeder cadre for all kinds of jobs, lack skills. The College has thus emphasized the acquisition of these skills through the need for training in groups and special classes to inculcate writing/presentation skills. These are in the process of being formalized. The College meanwhile, has introduced compulsory student presentations in the peer group in its Academic Society Meet. It also encourages hand-on experiences, internships and field trips to hone application skills for employability which is the pragmatic outcome of a graduate program of study. The rest of the ‘graduate attributes’ specified by the College are clearly enunciated in its Mission task at 1.1.1. above.

2.5.7 What are the mechanisms for redressal of grievances with reference to evaluation both at the College and University level?

Grievance redressal at University Level:

- Every semester the Examination Branch of University prepares guidelines for addressing grievances related to Internal Assessment, Practical Exam result and the End Semester Exam result.
- In all cases of grievance the College verifies the claim of the student, and forwards the application to the University for rectification.
- Students may also approach Dean Students’ Welfare directly for redressal of their grievances.
- The University provides photocopy of the evaluated answer scripts of the students upon demand to attend to their grievance, within a stipulated period.

Grievance redressal at College Level:

- While returning the answer scripts of class test/ assignments/ projects, the concerned teacher provides suggestions and comments for improvement and addresses grievances of students.
- Before sending the IA marks to the University, the students are required to scrutinize and sign the consolidated marks obtained. In case of discrepancies, an application to that effect may be submitted to the College office within the prescribed time and the issue is addressed at the appropriate levels of SIS, departments and the Monitoring Committee of the College.
- The Departmental Moderation Committee and the Monitoring Committee assess the internal discrepancies and grievances.
- The Students are free to approach the Principal directly, in case they are not satisfied by other interventions.

2.6 Students Performance and Learning Outcomes

2.6.1 Does the College have clearly stated learning outcomes? If yes, give details on how the students and staff are made aware of these?

The College does not yet have a formally stated policy on Learning Outcomes, but welcomes the idea of having one as a target to structure its work plan in the various departments of the College. The matter will be discussed in the next Academic Review Meeting scheduled on 24 April 2015. Currently, the communication is through a displayed work plan, syllabus and curricular requirements.

2.6.2 Enumerate on how the institution monitors and communicates the progress and performance of students through the duration of the course/ program? Provide an analysis of the students results/ achievements (program/ course-wise for last four years) and explain the difference if any and patterns of achievement across the program/ course offered.

To monitor the students' performance and progress:

- Results of internal class tests and assignments are analyzed at the departmental level.
- College monitors student attendance and advises accordingly through the ERP system.
- Every Department analyzes the End Semester Final Results of its students. Paper-wise results are also looked into to review/change/ update the reading material and teaching.

Pattern of Achievements:

The result analysis shows an incremental progress in student performance in the examinations. The pattern is uniform across courses, as is evident from the number of first divisions in each course in terms of progress.

Refer Table 03 & 04.

2.6.3 How are the teaching, learning and assessment strategies of the institution structured to facilitate the achievement of the intended learning outcomes?

The College follows the curriculum designed by the University. 25 % of the total result of each program is evaluated at the College level for which the College has a structured mechanism described in the previous points. It is here that the teachers adopt various innovative and traditional teaching methods designed to meet requirements of the students. To facilitate the achievements of the intended learning outcomes, the College strategizes as follows:

- Curriculum Implementation Plans are given in advance to the students so that they may come into the class with some preparation.
- Infrastructure is arranged as per the requirements of the curriculum
- Sufficient Library resources (e- resources as well as print) are arranged for the students to supplement their texts.
- The projects, class test and assignments are taken and evaluated and students are given formative feedback for all these.
- To supplement the curriculum, the departmental Academic Societies arrange Workshops/ Talks/ Seminars/ Field Trips.

2.6.4 What are the measures/ initiatives taken up by the institution to enhance the social and economic relevance (students placements, entrepreneurship, innovations and research aptitude developed among students etc.) of courses offered?

- For student placement the College has the CGPC, which organizes interface with students and potential employers through talks, recruitment drives and training.
- College networks as well as personal networks are activated to identify placements for students.
- NGOs like ENACTUS involve students in entrepreneurial projects at times and the College facilitates this effort.
- Innovations and research aptitude are developed through a deliberated program of mandatory presentation at academic society meet. Students are encouraged to participate in inter college/university academic events, international conferences and seminars with financial assistance from the College, specially, with the institution of the Centenary Decade Undergraduate Grant for Research and Innovation.
- The College recognizes and rewards all these efforts and has earmarked publication of findings as a funded component wherever required.
- Students are encouraged to take up projects which are real life applications of their curriculum.
- The College Academic Society presentations, the magazine, newsletters, wall magazines are the outcomes of intense working on the communication and writing skills of the students.
- Through the Language Sessions on ELPC software, the students have improved their communication skill.
- NSS, NCC, WDC, Gender Sensitization Cell, Heritage Walks, SPIC MACAY etc. are the societies which are directly involved in the social causes
- Co-curricular activities at college level and departmental level help to cultivate leadership qualities in the students.

- Internships during vacation are the direct applications of the curriculum of the students.

2.6.5 How does the institution collect and analyze data on student performance and learning outcomes and use it for planning and overcoming barriers of learning?

The College collects and analyzes the data on student performance in various ways of which some highlights are listed below:

- Informal discussions with students in tutorial groups. Here the students are guided as per their ability for comprehension and strategies worked upon accordingly.
- The performance of students in their class tests and submitted assignments and projects are a reflection of the students learning outcomes and help plan pedagogies.
- Intensive result analysis of college students and its comparison with other colleges is a self-reflexive exercise. Details are reflected in Tables 03 and 04

The outcomes of the analysis done in any / all above ways are used as inputs to improve the teaching-learning process Details are at 2.3.8 and 2.3.9 above.

2.6.6 How does the institute monitor and ensure the achievements of learning outcomes?

Learning Outcomes in the College are stated in its mission tasks and objectives, and is the holistic growth of a young women. This has been given at 1.1.1 and 2.6.1 above.

Mechanisms to monitor academic growth have already been stated above. The detailed report of result analysis is at 2.6.2 above.

- The College whole-heartedly supports, with finances and logistics, all initiatives taken by motivated students at individual levels which take them beyond the curriculum, even to the heights of Mount Everest, literally, and recognizes them as real achievements of the College. Mention in the prestigious Principal's Honor Roll instituted since 2011, is coveted by the students
- To inculcate the values of humanity, social responsibility, discipline, leadership etc. the College has various activities like: Khula Manch, Round Table Conference on Gandhi, Independence Day, Republic Day and Gandhi Jayanti celebrations. Martyr's Day is also observed. Here the students are given a platform to share their thoughts which provides an assessment of their moral and ethical values and responsibilities. The College awards the Barnhardt-Kamath Trophy and Prize for Adherence to Gandhian Principles of Simplicity, Modesty and Dedication to Community to encourage these qualities.

- Sports achievements mark the development of leadership and team spirit.
- The increasing number of students competing for different posts under CGPC indicate the efforts made in the area of skill development for employability.
- To explore the talent of students in the field of extracurricular activities, the College organizes various competitive and non-competitive events in different cultural societies/ academic societies. Details are in III and V.
- Publication of magazines/ research papers, preparation of reports are the evidences of the learning outcomes.

More Details are at 2.3.7.

2.6.7 Does the institution and individual teachers use assessment/ evaluation outcomes as an indicator for evaluating student performance, achievements of learning objectives and planning? If yes provide details on the process and cite a few examples.

Any analysis would be wasted if its outcomes were not to be used for improvement. Feedback from students inspires departments to discuss among themselves the strategies to be adopted for barrier free learning. In fact, the performance of a student indicates her grasping and understanding of the subject. A poor performance compels the College/ concerned teacher to interrogate. Accordingly, the pedagogies may be proposed. The practice of an Annual Academic Review of the College in a one-day sitting of all teachers with the Principal, has been found to be very useful as a self-reflexive exercise, exploring and assessing all aspects of teaching, learning, outcomes and strategies.

Some examples based on such feedback/assessments:

- The College has created Language based sections.
- Appointed faculty members who can do bilingual teaching.
- Special tutorial classes are arranged for Hindi medium students.
- Preference is given to peer learning
- Interactive teaching methods are adopted.
- Tertiary activities are chalked out to enrich the curriculum.

Any other relevant information regarding Teaching-Learning and Evaluation which the College would like to include.

- Translation as an activity promoted by the College to pique student interest and engagement with both language and cultural diversity is one of the College's latest success stories. This activity has cut across departments and has a wide ranging student participation. It also has potential employability apart from deploying language skills for various kinds of academic tasks and research.
- The College translation journal CODE as a teaching- learning outcome, was presented to a distinguished panel of eminent writers in Hindi and English at national and international levels. It was appreciated for the quality of the presentations made by students.
- The creation of departmental Web Portals as a joint venture of students and teachers is another such initiative. In particular the creation of an interactive alumnae database within the portals is a step towards external peer evaluation
- The College maintains a repository of excellent research projects/ papers in soft and hard copies as benchmarks.

3.6 Extension Activities and Institutional Social Responsibility (ISR)

3.6.1 How does the institution promote institution-neighbourhood-community network and student engagement, contributing to good citizenship, service orientation and holistic development of students?

The College promotes the institution-neighbourhood community network and student engagement through its various formal and structured societies and units.

Students are required to opt for one of the following three activities:

- NCC: The National Cadet Corps is the body regulated under the Ministry of Defence. It operates to render elemental military training that imparts the feeling of comradeship, honor and above all the perception of patriotism.
- NSS: The National Service Scheme basically deals with community service. Its motto 'Not Me but You' itself imbibes the spirit of civic responsibilities. The College has many projects running under it.
- Sports: Sports activities inculcate team spirit and ensure healthy living and fitness.

The NSS in particular collaborates to organize community health check-up which often extends to the neighborhood. Details on eye camps, Cancer awareness, Health talks. Sanitation, Cleanliness, HelpAge are at 3.6.2 below.

Through Curriculum Activities:

The students of the departments of Commerce, MMMC and Psychology (optional) undertake project work as part of their curriculum. For these projects, the students voluntarily/ as per advice of the faculty, choose the current topics related to the community. These hands on experiences give glimpses of society and make students aware about their rights and responsibilities as citizens.

Through Academic Societies:

Each department of the College has an academic society which organizes extension activities of the department. During these activities, the students get a platform to plan and organize the events. They learn to work in teams, interact with peer groups, encounter various problems and learn to negotiate them. These extension activities are actually formative and are arranged under the guidance of experienced faculty.

WDC: The Women's Development Cell organizes extension activities related to women's health and well-being, gender sensitization, women's safety, sexuality, domestic violence, legal issues, and so on. The Cell in collaboration with NGOs, arranges workshops/ talks and thematic film screenings on current issues.

Innovation Project Scheme and Gyanodaya Train Project initiated by University of Delhi are also projects through which students inculcate the knowledge and hands on experience for the community and society.

Through other activities/ societies

- Enactus, known before October 2012 as SIFE (Students In Free Enterprise), is an international non-profit organization dedicated to using the power of entrepreneurial action to improve the quality of life and standard of living of people in need. Guided by academic advisors and business experts, the student leaders of Enactus create and implement community empowerment projects around the globe and fulfill the Enactus motto, 'people, planet, profit' by being environmentally friendly, commercially viable and socially uplifting.
- Dramatics Society: The College has a very active dramatic society that works on the Annual Production, One Act Play and Street Play (Nukkad Natak) that are performed both in and outside the College. Students engage in the creative exercise of script-writing, direction, lights, acting, costume and stage designing etc. to derive a complete knowledge of theater activities.
- ECO Club: The ECO Club is a students' body that aims to promote awareness towards ecological issues among community. The club organizes events independently and in collaboration with various bodies within and outside the College. Its annual festival, 'Prakriti' showcases various environment friendly activities and products. It is an inter college event with encouraging student participation.

- Discussion Forum: The Discussion Forum of the College is a platform that tries to expose our students to contemporary topics that have relevance in politics, social sciences, human rights and ecology. The Forum seeks to enrich the academic engagement of the College community. It was conceptualized as an attempt to engage with issues of great relevance beyond the classroom. The forum provides an opportunity for our students to meet and interact with distinguished speakers, activists and academicians from the fields of politics, sociology, economics and history.
- SPIC MACAY/Cell for value added skill acquisitions: The College SPIC MACAY society has strengthened and expanded its areas of interaction with other cultural and academic bodies such as IGNCA, Rampur Raza Library, ASI and NAI. It organizes activities and events that help cultivate responsible citizenship and contribute towards community development. In its collaborative effort with ASI, it organized a training camp for heritage volunteers at the Red Fort during the XIX Commonwealth Games hosted in Delhi in 2010. Student volunteers were presented certificates for their outstanding service. A heritage walk to Humayun's Tomb and Dargah of Nizamuddin Awliya exposed our students to the technical aspects of Mughal construction and offered an introduction to the shrine and its complex socio-cultural morphology.
- International Students Desk: The College campus is internationalized with the presence of such a forum. The Vice-Principal acts as a mentor and is the nodal point of contact between foreign students and the College for all their needs. It has a vibrant International Student Society which has its annual festival and food courts to focus on linguistic and cultural diversity. There is a substantial College Prize for the Best Foreign Student (other than Indian origin).
- North East Forum: The College has a well-established North-East Forum, in compliance with the recent directions from the Government of India that focuses on the national and international significance and the cultural diversity of the north-east by organizing talks, seminars, exhibitions and cultural events. This society has an inclusive vision in all its endeavors to bring the region into the main stream of awareness by assimilating substantial section of the College community of students from that region.

3.6.2 What is the institutional mechanism to track students' involvement for various social movements/ activities which promote citizenship roles?

- Every student has to register with at least two ECA Societies and opt for one of the following activities: NSS, NCC and Sports.
- Each society has a staff coordinator and three students as office bearers. Besides organizing the society events, these office bearers are also responsible for keeping records of the contributions of its registered members.
- The students have to devote minimum mandatory hours in their registered society. At the end of every year, the students are given appreciation certificates, with the recommendation of the society coordinator, for their exemplary contribution to the society.
- Registered members of NCC have to appear for 'B' & 'C' Certificate exams conducted by the NCC wing of Delhi.
- The Students' Union structured, planned and implemented the Cleanliness Drive and took it into the Karmachari Quarters to educate children.
- Besides the above there are interstices in the Curriculum with the potential to develop the mentioned qualities in students. Some are given below:
 - The students of the Department of Psychology take keen interest in applying their class-room learning to real life scenario. In order to gather hands-on experience and develop their skills as Psychologists, students join a variety of organizations for short-term projects, internships and observer's positions. These organizations typically include Hospitals, Schools, Special Schools, MNCs (particularly HR Department), NGOs, Psychotherapy Clinics etc. Many students also volunteer with variety of NGOs and student organizations on a continual basis and serve the underprivileged sections of the society, e.g. many students of the Department provide their services to 'Make a Difference' which is a student run organization that aims at educating the underprivileged children and street kids.
 - The engagement of students with various organizations like ASI & NAI not only help them enhance their employability, but also help them clarify their future professional goals. The students from different departments like History, Political Science, Hindi, English etc. also fulfill their commitment as responsible members of the society and teaching-learning community.
 - Students opting for FCW/FCD undertake several projects related to women upliftment and empowerment, child care and development, care of people with disability and elderly. Applying the theoretical concepts to practical training the students are sensitized to several physical, emotional economic and social issues like female foeticide, reproductive health and hygiene, teaching children, designing and developing audio visual aids for children in all domains of development vis-à-vis physical-motor, cognitive, language, emotional and creative development, cleanliness and stress management.

3.6.3 How does the institution solicit stakeholder perception on the overall performance and the quality of the institution?

To solicit stakeholders' perception on the overall performance and the quality of the institution, the College has the following declared mechanism:

- A week has been fixed in the College Academic Calendar to collect feedback on a proforma from students which assesses curriculum, co-curricular activities, pedagogical issues.
- College has a suggestion/ complaint box where students can put their requirements/complaints/ suggestions.
- College website has a link where any of the stakeholders can put his/ her remarks/ feedback
- Any of the stakeholders is free to write to the Principal through the College email ipc1924@gmail.com or principalipc@gmail.com.

3.6.4 How does the institution plan and organize its extension and outreach programs? Providing the budgetary details for last four years, list the major extension and outreach programs and their impact on the overall development of students.

Planning and Organization: Extension activities and outreach programs are organized by the College through various internal bodies like NSS, EOC, WDC, GSC, North-East Forum, Departments of Sports, Psychology and the College chapters of larger societies like Enactus, 'Pravah' and so on. Additionally, any group of students mentored by a teacher may propose an extension activity or program of outreach. At the beginning of the session, all Staff Advisors usually plan the proposed activities and events of their societies in consultation with the students and curricular needs wherever applicable, along with a schedule for completion. The Union Advisor and ECA Coordinator, in accordance with the College Academic Calendar, prepare a calendar of events for the entire year. This calendar is followed for all academic and co-curricular matters.

Budget: Budgetary allocation for extension and outreach activities are not separate and are made from College receipts under Student Societies Fund. An estimate is initially submitted by the Staff Advisor and accounts are submitted. The estimate may be revisited on justification and the College is flexible regarding expenditure with due approvals from competent authorities.

Community Activities of Enactus Chapter of the College.

- SASHAKT: The project model involved imbibing basic sewing and stitching skills in a community of women residing near Shakurpur and Lawrence road with the help of the NGO, Sewa Bharti (regd.). The team collected reusable scraps of discarded cloth from boutiques and households with the aim of making aesthetic and useful bags and accessories to be sold in handicraft hubs.
- AIPAN: The project Sashakt focuses on the revival of Aipan through marketing of utility products like folders, envelopes etc. A dying art form, indigenous to the Kumaon region of Uttarakhand, Aipan consists of intricate geometric and rhythmic patterns made traditionally using Geru – a red color ochre and rice paste.
The College team put up a stall at the College's Festival Mela (October, 2014) showcasing products, all hand-made by the team members to raise funds for their upcoming social entrepreneurship project. Glass jars adorned with jute ropes, hand-painted diyas, innovative Diwali-lamps made out of bangles, were put on display for sale and recycled cloth bags (stitched under Sashakt) were exhibited at the stall.

3.6.6 Give details on social surveys, research or extension work (if any) undertaken by the College to ensure social justice and empower students from under-privileged and vulnerable sections of society?

- The College has enabled access to the differently-abled to all its spaces on the basis of its larger vision and need assessment and thus empowered this vulnerable section with educational facility.
- The Committee for Financial Aid to students has developed its proforma to assess needs to disburse aid. The proforma is subject to review on findings every year. Under-privileged and economically weaker section of students are given financial assistance from the College to enable them to get education including full waivers.
- Career counseling and training in mobility and computers is made available to the visually challenged students.
- Students of the Departments of History, Philosophy and Psychology, offered their services to 'Make a Difference', a student run organization which aims at educating the underprivileged children and street children.
- The Enactus team of the College
 - has visited the target community in Timarpur for the purpose of harboring mutual trust and understanding to start with the project AIPAN. Another purpose of the visits was to gauge their level of skill and willingness to work on the initiative, which has garnered positive results. Future visits have also been planned for the dual purpose of maintaining an open channel of communication and encouraging practice of the art form among the women.
 - The team plans to finalize the products to be marketed by conducting numerous surveys at different avenues to determine what piques the interest of the consumers superlatively.
 - On the basis of the surveys conducted, costs to be incurred and the skill of the women, the group started production of the most cost effective and popular product.

In keeping with the objectives of the innovation project, the team conducted various interviews and recorded their experiences, in the hope of capturing the 'last surviving moments' of a 'dying art form'. Over the last one year the team completed three documentaries, and interviewed seven artisans. The research led the team to cover the following art forms-

- Blue Pottery
- Hand-painted Bollywood Posters
- Ladakh Jewellery
- Kite Making

The innovation project team designed and carried out surveys to understand the ground realities pertaining to the survival of arts and artisans in India, the socio-economic disparity between the consumer and producer of the art products, the possible avenues that could open up for the growth of the artisan and the recognition of art.

3.6.7 Reflecting on the objectives and expected outcomes of the extension activities organized by the institution, comment on how they complement students' academic learning experience and specify the values and skills inculcated.

Extension activities are meant to contribute to the holistic development of a student (and faculty) and enrich the experience of formal education to create a good citizen, as envisaged in the vision and mission of the College. The extension and outreach activities identified and promoted by the College, help the student to bridge the gap between the lab and land, even to show the glaring discrepancies between what is preached and practiced at all levels of society. Disappointment and disillusionment are great teachers. They are also the prophets of possibility. The critical awareness and analytical power of that experience only enhances the awareness of the academic and theoretical component of the curriculum. Sensitization and awareness of the real world is an important component of such activities. Curriculum based projects are done by students of Psychology, BMMMC and FCW/ FCD but extend to all departments as internal initiatives.

Specific skills and values inculcated (not necessarily mutually exclusive categories) are people-skills, interpersonal relationships, respect for different points of view, tolerance of the 'other', patience, listening skills and most importantly, compassion. Thus a host of skills which are life-affirming and life-supporting may be inculcated. The academic tools of research are additionally learned. Thus ethnography, surveys, questionnaire designing, data collection, qualitative and quantitative analysis and other methods are learnt. These are always empowering and increase employability.

3.6.8 How does the institution ensure the involvement of the community in its reach out activities and contribute to the community development? Detail on the initiatives of the institution that encourage community participation in its activities?

Community outreach and development are a core part of the learning outcomes of the College and an integral part of its mission task. The College starts the sensitization and awareness program internally through talks and workshops, to begin with. Students are encouraged to take up curricular projects which reinforce the learning. The entire community is encouraged and facilitated to participate in mass programs on the national agenda to create solidarity and build a sense of community. These include Health Camps, Cleanliness Drive, Self-Defence Programs, Sports facilities shared with university and neighborhood community, Yoga classes for the College community, celebration of College Annual Sports Day with items of participation from families of colleagues, New Year lunch for the entire community of employees of the College, community celebration of all festivals in organized mela/fairs, financial assistance for medical emergencies of contractual employees etc.

Individual students and societies of the College are facilitated to pursue initiatives they identify. Thus, the Students' Union carried the values of sanitation and cleanliness to small children of staff who live on campus. NSS volunteers have engaged in teaching programs for the children of the less privileged sections of our colleagues on campus. Enactus, EOC, NSS, NCC.

The details are at 3.6.2, 3.6.4, 3.6.5, 3.6.6 above.

3.7.6 Detail on the systematic efforts of the institution in planning, establishing and implementing the initiatives of the linkages/ collaborations.

The College is interested in establishing exchange programs and twinning programs for students. Though the establishing of formal linkages and collaborations, especially with reference to international schools and universities and the College is subject to decisions by other supervisory and regulatory bodies, the College has taken initiatives and stayed networked with the International Educational Services (IES) and the USIEF. It is also a part of the Columbo Plan for links with Australian Universities and has kept the dialogue open with the international peer. At the national level it pursues linkages wherever possible with special agencies such as the ASI, NAI, NIDM etc. The systematic efforts of the College are in the nature of workshops, visits and outreach programs that it organizes or opts for with these organizations.

CRITERION IV

INFRASTRUCTURE AND LEARNING RESOURCES

4.1 Physical Facilities

4.1.1 What is the policy of the institute for creation and enhancement of infrastructure that facilitate effective teaching and Learning?

The College policy for creation and enhancement of infrastructure is driven by the following considerations:

- up-gradation of the obsolete

- creating a workplace which instills a sense of pride and ownership.

This macro assessment is at the level of the leadership, assisted by inputs from the management and administration.

Central to all the above is the teaching-learning process. To facilitate it the institution seeks/receives requisitions from teachers and students. These are based on curricular requirements, like labs, rooms, especially dedicated spaces, like enabling unit, dark room, editing bays, music practice room, public address systems in the classroom etc. and /or equipment of a special nature like projection facilities, recorders, cameras, specially designed teaching-learning aids for the differently-abled and so on. 4.2.9 Does the library get the feedback from its users? If yes, how is it analyzed and used for improving the library services. (What strategies are deployed by the Library to collect feedback from users? How is the feedback analyzed and used for further improvement of library services?)

The Staff Council appointed Library Committee functions with representatives from every department and the Librarian. A process of need assessment of learning resources and sourcing it is factored into its method of functioning. It also reviews the library services from time to time.

Student feedback about Library is usually taken at Departmental SFC meetings and is analyzed by the Faculty Representative on the Library Committee, and appropriate suggestions and directions are informed to the Librarian for further improvement of Library services. Online feedback has also been initiated from the January 2015 session

The latest review of the Library services was undertaken in August 2014. Details are as follows:

- Changing from the previous practice of declaring the funds in January-February, funds available to the library will now be declared in the first meeting of the committee at the beginning of the academic session since the number of students on rolls and the library contribution is a matter of accounting. The budget estimate be prepared accordingly, and allocation made to various departments.
- The unspent funds to be declared in January so that departments may procure by March i.e. by the end of the financial year.

- The process of procurement is to be reviewed to ensure financial propriety. For this, all departments are to constitute sub-committees which would receive requisitions and recommend purchase along with a check to see if the book is already available in the library. There would be no direct orders placed by teachers.
- The librarian is the competent authority to order and purchase after running the necessary check and also to receive the delivery.
- The Book Bank requisition by students is to be routed through the departmental sub-committee to expedite procurement, contrary to past practice.
- The procurement of books for the general/reference/fiction sections would be through departmental sub-committees, in the interest of democratization of functioning.
- All requisition is subject to available funds and copies restricted, if necessary.
- The departments must encourage the use of e-resources, especially in the case of expensive books.
- The classification of books be done as per university and universal practice and not department-wise.
- All students, especially new entrants, be mandatorily run through an orientation of the Library and its resources.
- Teachers to continue to purchase books individually, wherever required in student and institutional interest, and submit the books along with the bills to the Library. Expensive purchases made individually would require prior sanction/information.
- On-line purchase is permitted and will continue and is subject to approval and the usual financial regulations of the library.
- The books and other resources like films or software for PwD should be procured at the beginning of the academic session/semester.
- Library continues to be on DELNET, NLIST & DULS that facilitates e-resources and e-journals.
- There should be regular and rationalized weeding-out of books to make space, for updated versions of books.
- The possibility of transferring rare books on to micro-film is to be explored.

- The two hostels have in-house computers and connectivity.

4.3.3 What are the institutional plans and strategies for deploying and upgrading the IT infrastructure and associated facilities?

The College has an extensive IT infrastructure. Apart from deploying it for academic and information purposes, it is also in the process of e-governance for transparency and accountability. The College plans to digitize all its files. In the long run, the College proposes to move to a paperless governance. For this, policy changes are also required at the level of higher authorities. In the short term, the College would like to develop and maintain its own website and ERP which is currently availed from a vendor. A comprehensive plan is being developed which caters to all sections of the College community.

4.3.4 Provide details on the provision made in the annual budget for procurement, up gradation, deployment and maintenance of the computers and their accessories in the institution (Year wise for last four years)

The College prepares a budget as per the guidelines/norms prescribed by UGC.

The details of expenditure made, during the last four years, is as under:

	2010-2011	2011-2012	2012-2013	2013-2014

4.3.5 How does the institution facilitate extensive use of ICT resources including development and use of computer-aided teaching/ learning materials by its staff and student?

The institution facilitates through procurement, training, repair and maintenance of its systems. The use of computer-aided teaching/learning materials is in the domain of individual teachers and departments and the College supports these financially, whenever required or requisitioned.

Details are at 2.3.5 above.

4.3.6 Elaborate giving suitable examples on how the learning activities and technologies deployed (access to on-line teaching-learning resources, independent learning, ICT enabled classrooms/ learning spaces etc.) by the institution place the student at the center of teaching-learning process and render the role of a facilitator for the teacher.

All the above infrastructure enables interactivity in the classroom.

- Since most students are techno-savvy, multi-media approaches are both familiar and interesting for them.
- The Audio-visual mode has always been an effective strategy which is more stimulating than blackboard learning or dictation of notes.
- A student is motivated by her curiosity and is also able to access the material around a topic independently through e-resources and other resources.
- Direct interactivity online is also possible in the classroom. The College makes available laptops and students also use their smartphones to go online. What the teacher says can be verified, endorsed, reinforced or refuted on the basis of available information on the world-wide web.
- The departmental web portals also provide links to online lectures and e-resources for the student to explore on her own.

- The details of the library resources for student-centric learning is also available in point 4.2

4.3.7 Does the institution avail of the National Knowledge Network connectivity directly or through the affiliating university? If so, what are the services availed of?

The National Knowledge Network connectivity is through the Intranet of Delhi University. Its usages in the College are still limited and are as below:

- Internet Connectivity
- Video conferencing among colleges and between the College and the University. E.g. The Vice Chancellor has addressed students in the College several times through this facility.

4.4 Maintenance of Campus Facilities

4.4.1 How does the institution ensure optimal allocation and utilization of the available financial resources for maintenance and upkeep of the following facilities (substantiate your statements by providing details of budget allocated during last four years)

Optimal allocation is on the basis of assessments and average spending over the years. This is done as per norms. Maintenance of equipment is usually not more than 10% of the initial cost of the equipment. The College receipts under various heads and grants received are on the basis of its estimates under those heads. The College assesses the infrastructure and equipment from time to time. As and when required the College reviews its policies. AMC and other repair resources are assessed and allocated funds accordingly.

The College utilized financial resources as per guidelines received from the UGC and University of Delhi from time to time. The details of expenditure made (in rupees) during the last four years is as under:

S. No.	Particulars	Amount in Rupees

4.4.2 What are the institutional mechanisms for maintenance and upkeep of the infrastructure, facilities and equipment of the College?

- The College awards AMCs through due process for all its heavy equipment like transformers, ACs, CCTVs, Water Coolers, etc. annually.
- It has an in-house team for the maintenance of its Systems and Network and minor hardware day-to day repair. For all major computer related problems a reputed service provider is called in.
- The studio equipment is maintained/ repaired by the company supplying it, because it is often specialized or the sole authorized agency.
- The College has a Caretaker who is the nodal person to receive and redress complaints. It has an appointed team of electrician, plumber and handyman for routine problems. Complaint registers are available for all services which are required to be maintained with dates of complaint, its nature, nature of repair and date of redressal, to be countersigned by complainant on redressal.

4.4.3 How and with what frequency does the institute take up calibration and precision measures for the equipment/ instruments?

Not applicable.

4.4.4 What are the major steps taken for location, upkeep and maintenance of sensitive equipment (voltage fluctuations, constant supply of water etc.)?

5.3.3 How does the College seek and use data and feedback from its graduates and employers, to improve the performance and quality of the institutional provisions?

From Graduates: There is no structured mechanism to seek feedback from the graduates. During the Annual Alumnae meet, the College receives feedback through informal discussions. An alumnae corner has been created on the College website where suggestions and remarks may be posted.

From Employers: In the quarterly meetings of the Governing body held in the College, all reports on academic and administrative matters are formally presented. Members share their views and opinions on various issues and activities related to the College. These are recorded in the Minutes as observations, decisions and directives.

5.3.4 How does the College involve and encourage students to publish materials like catalogues, wall magazines, college magazine and other material? List the publications/ material brought by the students during the previous four academic sessions.

Workshops are organized by the College Editorial Society. Experts in the field of writing and editing are called in to train students. A resource person is being appointed to impart writing and editorial skills. The academic societies of various departments encourage students to design the publicity material for their events. In the national and international conferences/seminars organized by the College, teachers and students work together on production of brochures, posters and folders. A wall for student graffiti has been provided in the Student Activity Area. Every event in the College is publicized all over the city or University, as the case may be, through posters, flex banners and fliers. The College keeps a record of these in its archives.

The details of the published magazines are:

- The Annual Student magazine 'Aaroh' is brought out with enthusiasm and support, including the audio edition for VH students.
- The College Translation Journal for students, 'CODE' is just published.
- Besides, most departments have their newsletters as do the two hostels. All of them are supported by the College.

5.3.5 Does the College have a Students Council or any other similar body? Give details on its selection, constitution, activities and funding.

Students' Union: The College has an elected Students' Union, and both Hostels of the College have their separate Hostel Students' Union elected by the hostel residents.

Constitution: The Student Union has a democratically developed and duly passed Constitution with provisions for Amendments. Composition, role, process, procedure and penalties are clearly laid out.

Activities: The Student Union organizes major College events: Annual College Day, Annual Public Lecture, Republic Day, Independence Day, Gandhi Jayanti, Martyr's day, College Orientation and the College Annual Festival-SHRUTI. It is also the interface between the College and its students for student welfare, facilities, grievances and redressal. It functions as the conduit for the administration to co-opt the student body as a core component into its agenda of activities and policies. In this role it also organizes the General Assembly as a forum of interaction with the College authorities. The Union also addresses the Student General Body before and after events or issues.

Funding: College receipt under the relevant financial head provides the fund. Budget allocation is undertaken once the annual election of office bearers is completed.

5.3.6 Give details of various academic and administrative bodies that have student representatives on them.

- The in-house Hostel Committees
- Magazine Committee
- Student-Faculty Departmental Committees
- Admission Counseling Cells
- College Day Committee
- Sports Admission Committee
- All Academic Societies of Departments
- All Cultural Societies of the Staff Council
- Extra-Curricular and Co-curricular Societies
- The Website Committees of all Departments.
- International Student Desk
- College Complaints Committee (under Ord-XV-D) up to Dec.2013.

5.3.7 How does the institution network collaborate with the Alumnae and former faculty of the institution.

- The College has a dynamic database of its alumnae and provides for their online registration. Former faculty mailing list is also updated regularly.
- The College invites alumnae and former faculty to all its major events.
- College affiliation and library resources are available to retired teachers.
- The contribution of former faculty as resource persons for academics and activities is welcomed. Increasingly, the College plans to tap into this pool of available expertise.
- Many former faculty members have instituted prizes/ scholarships for students.
- Former faculty have also developed and donated study material to VH students.

- The alumnae network is kept alive through the glorious tradition of the College to invite a Distinguished Alumna guest to its Annual College Day event to address the audience from the dais.
- There is also a day fixed on the College Event Calendar for the Annual Alumnae Meet.
- Many enrolled teachers are alumnae and they maintain their networks at a personal level too.
- Departments have initiated the practice of inviting their alumnae for interactive sessions with students.

CRITERION VI

GOVERNANCE, LEADERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT

6.1 Institutional Vision and Leadership

6.1.1 State the vision and mission of the Institution and enumerate on how the mission statement defines the institution's distinctive characteristics in terms of addressing the needs of the society, the students it seeks to serve, institution's traditions and value orientations, vision for the future, etc.

Established in 1924, in the movement of nationalist philanthropists for women's education in Delhi, housed in a heritage building, marching towards its centenary, the College is proudly aware of its glorious history and tradition. The institution is the oldest women's college of the University of Delhi. Its institutional vision is to 'educate, enable and empower young women, emphasizing the need to mainstream the marginalized and weaker sections among them to ensure justice and equity in society'. Its mission is to steer the education it offers not only to lead to the pragmatic goal of employability, but also to build a life of the mind and sensitize and orient its students to service of the community, in the quest for a better life for society and the world that we inhabit. The College endeavors to nurture confident and responsible citizens who will uphold the values enshrined in the motto of the College 'Truth, Love, Knowledge, Service'. To this end the College's mission statement is set out as definite tasks which define the College's distinctive characteristics in terms of addressing the needs of society, the students it seeks to serve, the institutions traditions and value orientations, its vision for the future etc.

Woven into the fabric of the College's multi-faceted life are the activities that are aligned to its vision and ramify its mission.

Mission Statement stated at 1.1.1

6.1.2 What is the role of top management, Principal and Faculty in design and implementation of its quality policy and plans?

The top management, namely the Governing Body (GB) of the College cognizes the practice of participative management and decentralized functioning envisaged in the Statutes, Rules and Ordinances (SRO) of the University of Delhi. The GB plays a supportive role in matters of academic policy formulated by the faculty in the Staff Council (SC) and initiates policy on building infrastructural support based on assessment and feedback from the faculty routed through the Principal. It determines and monitors income and expenditure and acts as the sanctioning authority for finances required to implement quality policy and plans. The Principal as part of the top management is the Member-Secretary of the GB, CEO of the institution as well as the Principal –in- Council, as per SRO. She is also the Head of the Department of BMMMC. In all these roles, the Principal acts with advice from appointed faculty teams who participate to formulate and plan academic and management policies and processes of governance, and seeks their ratification in the GB wherever required.

6.1.3 What is the involvement of the leadership in ensuring?

- the policy statements and action plans for fulfillment of the stated mission
- formulation of action plans for all operations and incorporation of the same into the institutional strategic plan
- Interaction with stakeholders
- Proper support for policy and planning through need analysis, research inputs and consultations with the stakeholders
- Reinforcing the culture of excellence
- Champion organizational change

In pursuit of participative management, the leadership is constituted by a number of teams of varied profiles which engage in setting forth policies, supervise implementation including recruitment of personnel for a range of tasks, receive feedback and review.

- The Staff Council meets three to four times a semester. In the first meeting the policy statement and action plans are fitted into time –frames and set out in the College calendar of events for the semester.
- Department meetings and Student-Faculty Committee (SFC) meetings are held micro-planning and implementation.
- Since the institution is an organic entity it is important to formulate plans for all its units in order to operationalize the institutional strategy, in tandem. The seven units broadly identified are
 - Academic Affairs including Departmental Affairs
 - Administrative Affairs which include the functioning of the Administration and Accounts
 - the units of Library
 - Sports
 - Hostels
 - Co-Curricular activities including those of the Students' Union
 - Systems and Network of the College.

Teams determine the design and time-bound schedules for delivery, after due discussions and deliberations in the respective committees.

- The Staff Council through its Academic Standards Committee and the Monitoring Committee is central to the academic aspects of internal quality assurance, whereas the administrative team of the Vice-Principal, Bursar and Administrative Officer assisted by the Section Officers of both Accounts and Administration regularly engage in stock taking and review of administrative quality.
- The Librarian is assisted by a Library Committee which overhauls its functioning after due deliberations and review.

- The Department of Physical Education is assisted by the Sports Committee to supervise and upgrade the sports facilities.
- The Principal is available to interact with all stakeholders daily. Timings for Meeting with Principal may also be fixed in advance. In that role she is also part of larger networks both personal and professional, which feed into enhancing institutional quality as well as into mobilizing financial support, if and when necessary.
- The Principal has held the academic review sessions with the faculty since last year, which are in the nature of reflections on the direction of the academic trajectory of the College. In such meetings the vision of the College is reiterated and the tasks set out in its mission are evaluated for any deficiency. Such review meetings are routinely held in the administration also to monitor for efficient and compassionate functioning.
- A culture of excellence is fostered and reinforced by the effort to create ownership and pride in the College, and by raising the bar for all members of the College community.
 - Faculty and Staff are both encouraged to upgrade their academic qualifications and skills.
 - Students are facilitated to pursue not only curricular excellence but also activities that they undertake out of individual initiative going beyond the curriculum.
 - The College gives financial support for undergraduate students presenting papers in international seminars and conferences by recognized academic bodies. A Centenary Decade Research Grant for undergraduate students has been announced for original and innovative research.
 - Experts and eminent academics are invited for interaction with students and faculty.
 - Student papers and presentations are to take place compulsorily once a semester, in the academic societies of departments.
 - Governance in the College is a blend of motivational interaction, hard work, uncompromising honesty, appreciation and reward. The leadership's exposure to a variety of educational systems both local and global, and a knowledge and assessment of their best practices help to reinforce the culture of excellence by replication or adaptation.
- Organizational change is recommended after an assessment and review of outdated systems, ideas or infrastructure which is effected always in reference to the need of the hour. Several such mechanisms have been added or deleted in the interest of a more streamlined and modern organizational set-up. Though organizational change is encouraged, traditional and time –tested practices which have worked, are endorsed and consolidated. Continual review and stock taking is undertaken at regular intervals by the Principal, faculty and other staff.

6.1.4 What are the procedures adopted by the institution to monitor and evaluate policies and plans of the institution for effective implementation and improvement from time to time?

Monitoring and evaluation of policies and plans is a continual activity and happens at various levels: academic, administrative, infrastructural and managerial, whereas evaluation is largely dependent on results, feedback and efficacy.

- The Monitoring Committee sets out the academic vision and strategies which are shared with the larger body of the SC and put into discussion.
- Statutory committees exist to implement plans, sometimes in full, at other times in a phased manner. In this way the task is owned by a collective and decentralization is built into the system.
- There is periodic feedback or assistance from the Principal.
- The ASC organizes semester reports, feedback from colleagues and students with the help of departmental committees.
- The Principal, faculty and students interact in the General Body Meetings of students on academic, administrative and cultural issues.
- Interactions with various segments of the College administration are also organized on a regular basis outside formal structures.
- Annual brainstorming sessions in the Staff Council help to monitor and evaluate policies.
- The Monitoring Committee and the Administration help to carry out assessments and reports. These are documented as Minutes of the committee for the record and continuity.

6.1.5 Give details of the academic leadership provided to the faculty by the top management?

The top management may be here defined as the Governing Body and the Principal of the College. While the GB is in a supportive role in academic matters, it falls to the Principal to provide academic leadership. This is best done through personal example.

- The Principal has continually upgraded her academic credentials by advancing her own research and presenting it in the peer group. She has engaged classes regularly, and especially in moments of crisis, like the one encountered with the sudden teacher crunch that arose with the reorganization of teaching in July 2014, after the rollback of the FYUP.
- The Academic Standards Committee was instituted in the Staff Council in 2010, to monitor and streamline academic functioning in a decentralized way and work towards internal quality assurance.

- Beginning March 2014 a day-long academic review of all aspects of College activities happens in the Staff Council annually, to debate and organize academic matters.
- From 2014, the mandatory student presentations in Academic Societies of departments, once a semester has been introduced. Students have found this a useful and exciting space and advanced learners have been motivated to present their work in national and international forums and have won prizes. The Principal has earmarked time to attend and Chair student presentations herself to motivate and evaluate the ways in which students are shaping to meet the challenges outside.
- A Centenary Research Grant for Undergraduate Research efforts has been announced by the leadership to enable undergraduate students to undertake original and innovative research.
- Departments have been encouraged and supported with financial and human resources to hold National and International Seminars in order to create a wide-ranging exposure to both academics and industry. Written work and presentations are especially encouraged, both for self-upgradation and for student employability.

The faculty is encouraged and enabled to upgrade their credentials and explore the vista of their opportunities at both the national and international level. This is done by disseminating information of available openings regularly at research and employment levels. Since 2011, when the Principal became an awardee in the first cohort of the Fulbright-Nehru International Education Administrator Seminar, at least three teams of international education administrators have visited the College as an area of their own interest to explore exchanges and collaborations. Several global education bodies have conducted outreach sessions in the College including the European Union's Global Education Program. These too opened up academic opportunities for faculty and students with potential funding. Recently, the first ever International Conference-Festival on Plurilingualism and Orality in Translation was held in the College, conceptualized by the leadership and supported by the GB. The interdisciplinary topic was chosen so that faculty and students across departments could participate. It was a very successful event and a large number of teachers and students appreciated the leadership's effort to ensure exposure to new ways of thinking and presenting that the Conference-Festival provided, and expressed a sense of pride and belonging.

6.1.6 How does the College groom leadership at various levels?

The College encourages its students and faculty and the administrative staff to assume positions of responsibility and become accountable.

- At the level of faculty the principle of seniority-by-rotation applies to the position of in-charge of a department and ensures that each teacher participates in running the department. This non-statutory but democratic interface is enabled by the top management, in order to carry on the administrative functions of the departments.

- Faculty is schooled in the practices of ensuring transparency, accountability and democratic functioning by insisting on documentation of decisions as Minutes, the circulation and display of the same and compliance of the participative decision. Financial management is emphasized. The crucial importance of processes and procedures which protect both the individual and the institution are described and explained.
- Positions in the College like Deputy Superintendent Examination, has also been made rotational by seniority, a practice introduced since 2011 to demystify the role, as well as to groom the entire faculty in that supervisory role. The very structure and practices of the College as a part of the University of Delhi ensures that every teacher is put in a leadership role.
- Student–Faculty Committees have been formed in departments and meet at least once a semester to interact on departmental issues. Class representatives are appointed to assume responsibilities.
- At the level of students, the same principles of transparency, accountability and democratic functioning are emphasized. Documentation, display and dissemination of information are part of the practices of the Student Union and other Student Societies. Budgeting and accounting are taught and practiced because the College does not release funds without these. Students are encouraged to hold GBMs from time to time on important matters and to value democratic functioning.
- Leadership among the non-teaching staff is along the same principles though the milieu is more structured in terms of the hierarchy. The College respects the process of debate and discussion with the Karmachari Union and appreciates its ownership of responsibility. It accords full recognition to the elected leadership and enables it to function democratically. It also assesses individual qualities of the staff differentially, to accord opportunities and exposure to those who display interest and engagement with tasks beyond the defined ones. Such colleagues are drawn out and endowed with incentivized tasks.

The College has instituted since 2011 the Certificate of Appreciation for those employees who go beyond the call of duty to manage their work. The College recognizes that as an important dimension of leadership.

6.1.7 How does the College delegate authority and provide operational autonomy to the departments / units of the institution and work towards decentralized governance system?

The Statutory position of the Principal-in-Council under Ordinance XVIII-D of the University, itself envisions a delegation and decentralization of authority in all academic matters.

The Chair may propose plans and action plans, and may co-ordinate and implement the resolutions of the Council on all matters under the purview of the Staff Council.

The College tasks are carried out in committees of the Staff Council under the leadership of the conveners / coordinators. The departmental tasks are handled by various committees of the departments under the supervision of the Teachers-in-Charge, and sub-committees under designated coordinators.

Operational autonomy to departments is ensured by a policy of non-interference in departmental arrangements which work, and are demonstrated to work effectively in institutional interest. Thus work-allocation, formation of departmental committees, work plans, distribution of tasks, the recommendation of departments regarding appointment of teachers-in-charge where there is a crisis or controversy or difficulty, crisis management, conflict resolution and so on are matters internal to the departments.

The constitution of the various committees of the Staff Council is displayed in the public domain. Additionally, the post of Vice-Principal and Bursar and Administrative Officer, accords the space for further decentralization of governance in administrative matters since those are not within the purview of the Staff Council.

The Principal perceives her role as that of an appellate and arbitrating authority and as a determinant of policy in certain matters and as the implementing authority of the policies and directives of the competent authorities.

6.1.8 Does the College promote a culture of participative management? If ‘yes’, indicate the levels of participative management.

The belief in a non-hierarchical and collegial mode of academic governance is realized through the available structures of the Staff Council, which ensure participative management. The committees of the Staff Council are constituted in the Council and function under Conveners appointed in the Council. Participative management is also by delegation of authority and decentralization. The administration of the College carries on the routine management of the College. The Principal is advised by the Monitoring Committee on all academic matters and both units come together to advise on infrastructural requirements. Equally, the Principal, when she envisions an idea or task takes it to the administration /Monitoring Committee for assessment and implementation, monitoring and review. The Monitoring Committee comprises Secretary Staff Council, Bursar/Vice-Principal and two nominated members. The Vice-Principal and Bursar both have been the senior-most willing persons. However, with the insistence on API by the UGC, the post of Vice-Principal as a rotational one is undermined and the requisite points have to be satisfied to become Vice-Principal. This however, has not impacted the participative management system.

6.2 Strategy Development and Deployment

6.2.1 Does the Institution have a formally stated quality policy? How is it developed, driven, deployed and reviewed?

The institution has not made a formal statement of a quality policy. The quality policy is implicit in the mission tasks of the College. Quality as a value is developed and realized through a set of goals and objectives discussed in reflective sessions with the GB, the Staff Council, the Administration and in the classroom. It is driven by praxis, by organizing institutional activities realizing the mission tasks. It is deployed by identifying best practices and consolidating those across the various units of the College. Reviews are a result of comparative assessments, additional goals and objectives, efficacy of an existing set of practices and external developments, trends and demands with which the institution desires to align itself. These reviews are already worked into the administrative and academic practices and structures of the College.

6.2.2 Does the Institute have a perspective plan for development? If so, give the aspects considered for inclusion in the plan.

The perspective within which all development takes place is worked into the vision statement of the College. Development is envisaged and planned under the heads of Academics, Infrastructure and Human Resources. The aspects under consideration are those that enrich the quality of life in the institution and enable the community to realize its potential. In this endeavor, there is expansion of activities, opportunities and infrastructure for students; latest technologies are brought in for the differently-abled and to optimize time and efforts to run the College. Training and skill development among the non-teaching staff is encouraged and faculty is encouraged to upgrade itself and expand the scope of academic activities beyond the curriculum.

6.2.3 Describe the internal organizational structure and decision making processes.

The internal organizational structure is as laid down in the Rules , Regulations and Statues of the University of Delhi and is clustered under Academic and Administrative with the Governing Body as employer and top management. The cluster structure permits a multi-pronged process of decision making under defined areas. The 15 member GB is headed by the elected Chairman with the elected Honorary Treasurer as the custodian of finances and legal processes of the College. The Principal is its Member Secretary authorized to execute its decisions on administration, admission, finances, development, recruitment etc. The Staff Council is the academic cluster and the Principal in Council is the implementing authority of decisions taken there in a collegial mode and implemented through its various committees. The administrative cluster is hierarchical with the Administrative Officer as the supervisory authority of the Non-Teaching Staff and assists the Principal in administrative matters. All decisions, policy, budget and expenditure are reported and ratified in the GB. The decision-making process is a democratic one and promotes participative management, ownership and accountability.

6.2.4 Give a broad description of the quality improvement strategies of the institution for each of the following

- Teaching & Learning
- Research & Development
- Community engagement
- Human resource management
- Industry interaction

The College has a wide range of quality improvement strategies which are periodically developed, implemented, assessed and reviewed within the structures of the committees of its various units.

- Teaching and Learning quality is ensured and enhanced by regular engagement of curriculum, broad spectrum activities around it, emphasis on writing and presentation skills, internal assessment and examination and result analysis thereafter. Pedagogical strategies are also reviewed.
- Quality of Research and Development at the level of teachers is ensured at the level of the individual in conformity with global practices. In their roles as supervisors of students, such practices are implemented and incorporated. These are assessed, monitored and reviewed, whenever necessary. Quality is sought to be enhanced by emphasizing the necessity of formal presentation of research, which is one of the weaknesses identified across the board.
- Community Engagement is integral to the College policy. Areas of engagement are identified after need assessment. The quality of the engagement is monitored by the ethical committee which creates awareness and sensitivity around the methodologies of engagement. The final assessment includes a review of quantification of the engagement in productive output.
- Quality of Human Resource Management is sought to be developed through daily stock-taking and accountability practices by the Principal,

Vice-Principal, Bursar and AO. In-house informal training and briefing of teams of both teachers and non-teaching staff for specific purposes, like examination and admission, conferences and events and encouragement to further professional development through participation in up-gradation programs in education and skills is also undertaken.

- Industry interaction in the College is organized around the curriculum for hands-on experience of skill and knowledge application. It is considered also from the point of view of internship and employment opportunities for students, expert interaction with them and collaboration opportunities. Personal and professional networks are activated for interaction and assessed and reviewed through student and departmental feedback on productivity and quality of the exposure.

6.2.5 How does the Head of the institution ensure that adequate information (from feedback and personal contacts etc.) is available for the top management and the stakeholders, to review the activities of the institution?

The Principal relies on feedback from teachers and students, reports submitted to the Staff Council and the necessary and relevant information is submitted in the Annual Report. College activities are reported in the GB. The GB issues directions as per its assessment but does not intervene in activities envisaged by the departments except in matters of protocol and policy.

6.2.6 How does the management encourage and support involvement of the staff in improving the effectiveness and efficiency of the institutional processes?

The GB is supportive both morally and financially of all ventures which enhance institutional prestige by enhancing the academic, cultural and community life of the College. It formally recognizes exceptional work and makes it a part of the College records. It has instituted the Certificate of Appreciation for the non-teaching Staff which is awarded on College Day.

6.2.7 Enumerate the resolutions made by the Management Council in the last year and the status of implementation of such resolutions

There were 42 major resolutions of the GB from January 2014-2015. The majority of these have been implemented and the rest are in the continual process of implementation.

6.2.8 Does the affiliating university make a provision for according the status of autonomy to an affiliated institution? If 'yes', what are the efforts made by the institution in obtaining autonomy?

Not Applicable

6.2.9 How does the Institution ensure that grievances / complaints are promptly attended to and resolved effectively? Is there a mechanism to analyze the nature of grievances for promoting better stakeholder relationship?

In the day-to-day running of the College, grievances are sorted by engaging the involved parties in the spirit of conflict resolution and reconciliation. Course correction is made wherever necessary. During the admission process, there is a Grievance Committee set up under directions of the University. The University has a Committee to directly entertain grievances of all members of its community and the public. The nature of contentious grievances are reported in the Staff Council usually under Any Other Matter and discussed at length. Serious administrative matters are in the purview only of the GB.

6.2.11 Does the Institution have a mechanism for analyzing student feedback on institutional performance? If ‘yes’, what was the outcome and response of the institution to such an effort?

From the current session, January 2015, for the first time student feedback has been sought on a proforma. In the past, such feedback was received and addressed through the Student Faculty Committees, at departmental/individual levels or in the case of a formal complaint, through the Principal.

6.3 Faculty Empowerment Strategies

6.3.1 What are the efforts made by the institution to enhance the professional development of its teaching and non-teaching staff?

Teaching staff is facilitated to attend academic up-gradation courses from time to time and also take on research projects. Skill development in computers and academic resourcing are also conducted at the institutional level for teachers.

Non-teaching staff is also encouraged to attend training and skill up-gradation programs conducted in-house and also by the University and other bodies. Acquiring additional academic qualification is facilitated. Departmental Promotion Committees sit at regular intervals, whenever there are vacancies at various levels of the administration and teaching staff.

6.3.2 What are the strategies adopted by the institution for faculty empowerment through training, retraining and motivating the employees for the roles and responsibility they perform?

The College encourages and expects individual teachers who undergo training to share the skills/knowledge acquired in their departments and the larger body of teachers, as the case may be. Regular workshops are held by the College to orient them to the Student Information System.

The College holds workshops and talks for Library Staff, Technical Team, Garden Staff and others separately. Expert interaction through talks, seminars and invited speakers motivate employees. The administration at various levels meets with the Staff for motivational and orientational purposes.

6.3.3 Provide details on the performance appraisal system of the staff to evaluate and ensure that information on multiple activities is appropriately captured and considered for better appraisal.

Performance Appraisal System (PAS) is an official mechanism for self-appraisal and is on a prescribed proforma designed as per University norms.

6.3.4 What is the outcome of the review of the performance appraisal reports by the management and the major decisions taken? How are they communicated to the appropriate stakeholders?

PAS is for promotional purposes. It is not customary for the management to review self-appraisals unless there are glaring discrepancies in the claims of the applicants. Any observations are communicated informally.

6.3.5 What are the welfare schemes available for teaching and non-teaching staff? What percentage of staff have availed the benefit of such schemes in the last four years?

Medical Benefits, HTC and LTC, PF and NPS and all other welfare schemes instituted under SRO are provided. Emergency Medical Support under ISR for contractual employees has been instituted from this year.

Percentage of staff availed benefit of schemes in the last four years

 - There is a committee for financial aid which recommends names of students for financial aid/fee waiver.
- Infrastructure development
 - The College has a Plan & Purchase and Building Committee under direct control of Governing Body which examines proposals received from various departments/sections. The Governing Body after due scrutiny accords its approval on all such proposals.
 - After scrutiny of the proposals, the College invites quotations or floats tenders as per General Financial Rules (GFR) and College policies.
 - The College also seeks approval and sanction on proposals (on actual expenses) from the Governing Body.

6.4.2 What are the institutional mechanisms for internal and external audit? When was the last audit done and what are the major Audit objections? Provide the details on compliance.

6.5 Internal Quality Assurance System (IQAS)

6.5.1 Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC)

- Has the institution established an Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC)? If 'yes', what is the institutional policy with regard to quality assurance and how has it contributed in institutionalizing the quality assurance processes?
- How many decisions of the IQAC have been approved by the management / authorities for implementation and how many of them were actually implemented?
- Does the IQAC have external members on its committee? If so, mention any significant contribution made by them.
- How do students and alumni contribute to the effective functioning of the IQAC?
- How does the IQAC communicate and engage staff from different constituents of the institution?

The College does not have a formal IQAC but the internal quality of the College in the domain of academics is ensured by the Monitoring Committee and the Academic Standards Committee in consultation with all departments.

- Every department also has an SFC in which the teaching-learning process is planned, described reviewed/reinforced.
- The workload of departments is assessed as per norms. Student options are sought wherever the scope arises. These are incorporated into the logistics of recruitment, work-allocation, availability of infrastructure and human resources.
- The requirement of teaching aids, space and technology as well as of teachers or other support staff is also formulated by these committees.

- There are meetings, at least 3 times in a semester to streamline and address the process of teaching-learning. Meetings can also be requisitioned whenever needed.
- The formalized structure helps to organize the process which all colleagues have found useful to ensure the monitoring of quality.
- Committees of the Staff Council such as Library, Hostel, Sports, General Facilities, Extra-Curricular Activities, Financial Assistance to Teachers, Student Aid, NSS, NCC, WDC, ECO Club, Equal Opportunity Cell, Gender Sensitizing Committee Discussion Forum etc. meet regularly to give their inputs in areas of their operation to monitor the quality of the teaching –learning process.

6.5.2. Does the institution have an integrated framework for Quality assurance of the academic and administrative activities? If ‘yes’, give details on its operationalization.

The College ensures continual quality development, assessment, review and monitoring through available mechanisms in the University Ordinances which meet regularly at the level of faculty and students. These are the Academic Standards Committee, the Student Faculty Committees at the level of Departments, and the Monitoring Committee at the level of the College. All decisions and observations are reported and discussed in the Staff Council for necessary action or course correction.

At the level of the Administration and other institutional levels, like the Accounts and Library and Hostel, the College has a set of best practices, which has enabled it to ensure that quality is enshrined as a value. A brochure enlisting the Best Practices was brought out to showcase the College achievements on the occasion ‘Antardhvani 2013’, the University Annual Festival.

6.5.3 Does the institution provide training to its staff for effective implementation of the Quality assurance procedures? If ‘yes’, give details enumerating its impact.

Since tasks are not specifically allocated and personnel are not specialists most of the time, the College trains and orients its Staff in the procedures of particular processes such as admissions, examination, data management, event management etc. Since this training and orientation is outside the formal structures of governance, the impact has not been quantified. However, there is qualitative and visible impact on the overall functioning of the College and such training is a crucial process in governance and management of the College.

The College regularly sends its staff for training programs organized by competent authorities and agencies.

6.5.4 Does the institution undertake Academic Audit or other external review of the academic provisions? If 'yes', how are the outcomes used to improve the institutional activities?

There is no provision for Academic Audit in the SRO of the University or a structured internal policy and mechanism. However, the mechanisms of the Staff Council and its Committees ensure the monitoring, maintenance and improvement of quality of academics in the College.

Annual Academic Review: to discuss and review learning objectives and pedagogical strategies at the macro level of the College. The Library facilities are reviewed and updations made in terms of books, journals and e-resources commensurate to requirements and demands of stakeholders.

Monitoring Committee: to propose, review, implement and monitor systemic checks and balances put in place to improve academics in the College. Thus it assesses curriculum, gathers departmental feedback through the ASC, to suggest infrastructural changes or additions, workload and recruitment and reconciles available infrastructure and human resources with the academic flexibility that the College may affirm for optimization of its activities.

Academic Standards Committee: to decide at the department level, the logistics required for effective implementation of the curriculum, including the academic schedule of assignments, submission of marks and attendance.

Departmental Committees: to analyze and compare results of the final exams and moderate the results of class tests that are components of internal assessment.

Student-Faculty Committee: to review as a department the teaching-learning related issues like optional papers, evaluation, assignments and other academic events in the department.

The outcomes of all these exercises regularly and meticulously undertaken by the College feed into its academic environment to improve quality and delivery of its various academic programs.

6.5.5 How are the internal quality assurance mechanisms aligned with the requirements of the relevant external quality assurance agencies/regulatory authorities?

The College in all its efforts as detailed above, seeks to align with the ideals of excellence and progress articulated in the University and the national agenda of higher education and laid out in its vision statement and mission tasks.

6.5.6 What institutional mechanisms are in place to continuously review the teaching learning process? Give details of its structure, methodologies of operations and outcome?

Refer 6.5.4. above.

6.5.7 How does the institution communicate its quality assurance policies, mechanisms and outcomes to the various internal and external stakeholders?

The mere absence of a formally stated internal quality assurance mechanism has neither inhibited quality nor its communication to internal and external stakeholders. The College has upheld and improved on its high standards largely, through infrastructural development in alignment with actual performance in academics and organizational management. The College's policies and outcomes are communicated to all stakeholders and put in the public domain.

The Annual Report of the College enumerates the various ways in which the College continually raises the bar for itself. Student results and activities are documented therein and speak for themselves, as do the annual record of incremental acquisition of qualification and skills by the staff, both teaching and non-teaching.

The College reports all developments and achievements to the top management in the GB meetings and puts all the information in the public domain through its website, the Principal's Report and the Annual Report made for the University.

Any other relevant information regarding Governance, Leadership and Management which the College would like to include.

An important intervention in governance of the College is the daily meeting of the administrative management. Though it is not part of any formal structure of governance, this interaction promotes the review of tasks projected and undertaken to be completed in a time-bound manner, and streamlines the functioning of the College.

The College undertakes an Annual Review of all aspects of the institution with teaching and non-teaching staff to make projections and plan.

The Principal is an active and visible participant during student presentations at Academic Society Meets across departments to encourage and motivate students to take their quality seriously and raise the bar of performance.

A Centenary Decade Research Fund has also been announced for undergraduate students, to encourage and support innovative and original research as there is no mechanism for such support elsewhere.

The College has a cloud-based ERP system to manage academic and administrative information on all matters related to students, teachers and non-teaching staff.

The Principal's Honor Roll has been instituted in 2012 to recognize and reward individual initiatives of students which take them beyond their curriculum. This has added value and prestige to students' achievements.

A Certificate of Appreciation has been instituted since 2011 to recognize and reward the non-teaching staff of the College for going beyond the call of duty and for excellence in their work.

The Principal holds classes regularly and has acted as the resource person in workshops from time to time for students and teachers on areas of common interest. In 2014 she coordinated several such meetings on language and translation. She has held workshops in 2013 on pedagogy of the IMBH course with teachers, in addition to teaching and administrative duties.

The College envisaged and held its first International Conference-Festival in March 2015 in an interdisciplinary area to enable students and teachers across departments to participate in various ways in the event. The feedback received was very positive in terms of the exposure and opportunity it accorded to the College community. The success of that initiative in enhancing the quality of academic and community life in the College has further encouraged the College to plan an academic event on that scale on a regular basis.

The College hosts the Annual Public Lecture which is endowed by the Management of the Indraprastha Girls Senior Secondary School, the College's parent body and fount, where an eminent public intellectual is invited to speak. The College hosts a lunch on the day to promote good-will and interaction between the teachers of the School and the College. The College teachers have proposed educational counseling sessions for the school students to empower them for University education.

The belief in the importance of a vibrant and dynamic community life in the College has engendered community development activities through informal interaction over New Year get-togethers on the Principal's Lawns for the staff. Teachers and students celebrate festivals together in the Hostels in the Students' Activity area and on the Principal's Lawns. The Principal's residence is an open house and resident students and staff meet over snacks, music and colors on Holi. Yoga classes are being organized for the College community from this summer. The College views these as confidence building measures which raise the quality of life and performance in the College.

CRITERION VII

INNOVATIONS AND BEST PRACTICES

7.1 Environment Consciousness

7.1.1 Does the Institute conduct a Green Audit of its campus and facilities?

The College as yet has not conducted a Green Audit of its campus and facilities formally, but has sought and got advice on ways in which sustainability may be implemented. For instance, when the College initiated a project for water harvesting, experts opined that the College lying on a river bed had a water table which was in abundance.

7.1.2 What are the initiatives taken by the College to make the campus eco-friendly?

- Energy conservation
- Use of renewable energy
- Water harvesting
- Check dam construction
- Efforts for Carbon neutrality
- Plantation
- Hazardous waste management
- e-waste management

The College mission statement incorporates awareness, sustenance and promotion of heritage as a value. Located as it is within a heritage property and exposed from all directions, with an extensive green cover and bio diversity, a love and respect for the environment is built into the holistic vision of the College. The College believes in sustainable development, optimization of available resources and inculcation of a life-style and habits which lead to conservation of energy and other natural resources.

The College has initiated and developed measures which dovetail into the global and national agenda to be eco-friendly, reconciling all such initiatives with creation of an optimal ambience of functionality and operationalization of both its material and human resources.

Energy conservation:

- The College has maximized the use of daylight and daylight hours to begin its teaching schedule at 8.40 am and operates mostly from high-ceiling and well-lit classrooms where artificial lighting and cooling is minimally required.
- Solar Panels are used in one of its hostels and the College is examining its implementation in the other hostel.
- The ECO Club of the College undertakes a promotion drive for saving of fuel by a bicycle riding marathon in the area as part of its annual festival.
- Earth Day is also observed by turning off all lights on the campus for a stipulated number of hours.

Paper recycling:

- The College has a tie-up with an NGO to recycle waste paper. Student projects under extension activities of recycling also source waste paper.
- The use of paper is sought to be minimized by encouraging the use of ERP. The College encourages the use of both sides of paper.

E-waste disposal and recycling is undertaken through a tie-up with an NGO. The College does not generate hazardous waste.

Carbon footprint is being sought to be minimized by proposing waste water management all over the campus.

- Use of natural manure and a minimal use of fertilizers. Eco-friendly pesticides are preferred.
- The use of plastic is discouraged and so are the use of disposable cups and plates is discouraged in Canteen and the Hostel Mess.
- Compliance of the Hon'ble Supreme Court order on the burning of leaves is ensured.

Plantation drives are undertaken on the campus and in the hostels to augment green cover.

- The College has a strict policy for pruning of its trees, in alignment with the laws governing it.
- Compost Pit is a project of the ECO Club with an NGO.
- Student creativity with waste is encouraged.

7.2 Innovations

7.2.1 Give details of innovations introduced during the last four years which have created a positive impact on the functioning of the College.

In its continual pursuit to develop human potential, the College has made innovations at the levels of academic transaction, infrastructure development and institutional management

Innovative Academic Transaction:

- Film and documentation in the Multi Media and Mass Communication Department:
 - Curriculum in the BMMMC Course is transacted along interdisciplinary lines with structured readings interfacing with topical issues. The tasks of the institution are undertaken as projects with credits. For example, the history of the College which the College wanted to screen as a film in the University festival 'Antardhvani' was conceptualized as a project with various groups of students focusing on different units of the project - oral narratives, archival material, heritage building etc. to produce the documentary.

- The College has been able to document its activities and events as ongoing projects of the MMMC department and use its expertise and equipment to train students driven by curricular requirements. This has produced a vibrant ambience in the College with student supervised cameras and surveys visible as other activities go on.
- Addressing Urgent Social Concerns in the Psychology Department:
Curricular components like projects also function as a research and development resource to comprehend and confront urgent concerns like transgender sexualities. Such research is being used in tandem with workshops by activists in the area, to create awareness and sensitization around the imminent visibility of the transgender on College campus as a result of the order of the Hon'ble Supreme Court granting education rights to them.
- Heritage Tour of the College conducted by Department of History.
The College is a milestone in the formal Heritage Walk of Colonial Delhi and itself contains much heritage, not only in its building but also in the fauna and flora of its environment. As an unfolding process of motivation and methods, teachers and students routinely conduct the heritage tour of the College for visitors or fresh arrivals in the College.
- Supplementing Curricular Learning through Interdisciplinary Programs:
 - The Innovation Project program of the University of Delhi has given a major fillip to interdisciplinary activity and interaction in the College and five innovation projects involving students and teachers have been successfully completed.
 - The activity of translation has been a major thrust area this year and students and faculty have enthusiastically participated in the language and cognitive processes of translation through workshops, discussions and seminars. Knowledge locked by language is encouraged to be unbound through language acquisition. The many ways in which language expresses the social, historical and cultural life of the region of South Asia was sought to be explored in an International Conference-Festival held in the College in March 2015, with the momentum building over a year.
 - The College has encouraged its students and faculty to supplement curricular learning across departments.
 - During the FYUP, teachers of the English and History departments conducted interdisciplinary projects with mixed groups of students.
 - The College has hosted programs

- on legal literacy by lawyers' initiative and Women's Development Cell;
- electoral literacy programs initiated by the Mr. S.Y. Quraishi, Chief Election Commissioner and Government of India;
- Financial Literacy program by the RBI for the students of Department of Economics;
- In collaboration with ASI, the students of Department of History interned at Red Fort, seventeenth century Mughal Monument to supplement their curriculum.
- Computer Literacy Programs and Mobility Training Programs for VH students.
- The North-East Forum Meet to incorporate the region into mainstream perceptions and also supplement the curriculum
- The Discussion Forum to hear voices of eminent public persons on issues in the public domain, in interactive sessions.
- The International Students' Day, a cultural and academic festival which showcases different cultures and peoples through exhibitions, academic and cultural presentations, popular art and cultural artifacts and cuisine.
- Programs like Golden Key International and International Award for Young People which serve as an interface for academic and life-long learning.

Innovative Infrastructural Development and Expansion through Optimization:

The College being a heritage building and campus contained by a boundary wall and strict building by-laws offered very little scope for expansion into space especially faced by the challenge of OBC student intake. There was no scope for frontal vertical or lateral expansion. However, there were large spaces within the College building which were residual halls and corridors lying unutilized except in temporary and transient ways. All these spaces were re-conceptualized and reinvented to create state-of-the-art infrastructure adapting the heritage features and working around them. Some of these are as follows:

- In 2010, the old ballroom and assembly hall of the College became the New Conference Hall with the original three graceful arches and four pillars worked into its design. It is fully equipped with acoustical and projection facilities and seats 225-250 people. The seats were left unfixed to allow some flexibility of numbers within the parameters of safety. It has since been the main hub of academic gatherings. The annexe is used not only as the reception area for academic seminars but is also an exhibition foyer. Additionally, it functions as a utility area for students where notices are displayed and proforma are filled and is also the covered passage to access the eastern wing of the quadrangle.

- The Principal's Office complex was a large common area which has been reworked to create the two work stations, those of the Administrative Officer and the SPA to Principal as well as a Committee Room for meetings which doubles up as the reception area for College guests. It seats 15-20 people. The cupboards have been recessed into the walls.
- The dilapidated, quasi-abandoned gymnasium has been recast as a Multi-Facility Sports Complex with indoor badminton courts which double up as a basketball practice court, table tennis areas, and a squash court. The vast interior vertical space has a hanging mezzanine floor now which is the martial arts and aerobic dance area. A chess room and fitness centre are adjacent to the mezzanine. The fitness centre has the latest equipment. The Department room of the Sports and Physical Education is also located there. Rest rooms are built in all areas.
- The corridor connecting the old gym and auditorium has been reworked into the dance hall, shooting gallery, green rooms and a toilet.
- The auditorium which could earlier seat 350 now has a balcony inserted and seats 586 students. It is 100% barrier free and has the latest safety measures and stage equipment. A foyer for exhibitions adjoins it which doubles as the reception area. There is an office space and toilets in all areas.
- The ICT Centre was created out of the Library Hall and the spaces utilized for shelves to accommodate spillovers. Empty, open, unused terraces are now wings of the Library complex which house the Translation and Translation Studies Centre and the Museum and Archives: Learning Resource Centre.
- The Seminar Room on the first floor in a visionary decision, can be accessed by students on wheelchairs from the AV Room below it on the ground floor, in which a teleconferencing connection has been installed to facilitate parallel viewing and participation.
- A lift has been installed in the Library which caters to all the connected areas so that all of them are 100% barrier free and accessible to the orthopaedically-challenged.

Institutional Management through Innovative Managerial Practices

The creation of a work culture which is ethical, transparent and accountable is central to the health of the institution. The College believes that this is a dynamic process in which the obsolete and flabby must be discarded and practices introduced which motivate all members of the College community not only to give their best but also create a sense of belonging.

Some of the steps taken in this direction are as follows:

- Transparency and accountability in all dealings within and outside the College by ensuring a paper-trail on decisions and action, with information, documentation and display in the public domain.
- Daily briefing, and stock-taking of tasks and their review at the close of day by the Principal.
- Proactive approach to clearing of all pendency of employee entitlements in a time-bound way through biennial stock-taking.
- Regular interaction with Non-Teaching Union to pre-empt grievances.
- Recording all Non-Teaching achievements in the College Annual Report.
- Creating space in the vanguard for Non-teaching Staff on College Annual Day.
- Certificate of Appreciation for excellence in discharge of duties for Non-teaching Staff.
- PF Committee meeting every month to recommend to the GB the steps that may be taken to augment and maximize benefits to employees, creating a paper/information-trail, for continuity so that no public dealing is held up due to absence of a dealing person.
- Facilitation of all office dealings of differently-abled persons.
- Response time frame for administrative queries.
- Ensuring prompt response to public correspondence on e-mail through random checks.
- Transfer of all files to ERP over fixed time-schedules.
- Effective and efficient Student Information System.
- Regular interaction in the General Assembly with students.
- Principal's Honor Roll of Students, for individual initiative and significant achievements beyond the curriculum.
- Opportunity for students to intern in the College Office during vacations, on request.
- Responsibility of Examination Supervision allotted on seniority-by-rotation basis to allow all colleagues space to assume positions of responsibility.
- Daily Stock-taking and briefings by Principal in the Admission Committee during the admission period.
- Health and other awareness camps like financial and electoral services for the entire College Community.

7.3 Best Practices

7.3.1 Elaborate on any two best practices in the given format at page no. 98, which have contributed to the achievement of the Institutional

Objectives and/or contributed to the Quality improvement of the core activities of the College.

The two best practices which have both contributed to the achievement of Institutional Objectives of justice, equity, empowerment and excellence and have improved the quality of the core activity of academics in the College, are identified as

- Mainstreaming Persons with Disability (PwD)
- Financial Support to Students at various levels of engagement. It must be stated at the outset, that the support of the Governing Body in promoting these practices has been unconditional and unstinting.

Best Practice I

1. Title of the Practice:

Barrier-Free Access and Empowerment of Persons with Disability (PwD)

2. Goal: To create 100% barrier free access in the College and leverage financial resources and technological advances to enable and empower the PwD community of the College and integrate it into the mainstream of College life and activities, working towards the larger aim of self-reliance, confidence and a life of dignity for the differently-abled.

The underlying principles have been a belief in justice and equity which must translate into equal opportunity for all; the conviction that issues of physical access are central to the concept of equal opportunity for the differently-abled and that the one cannot exist without the other; a belief in equal opportunity and a life of dignity to be a human right; the importance of inculcating in the larger community a compassionate consideration and sensitivity to the needs of PwD.

3. The Context: The design was conceptualized and cast in the context of the structural amnesia that has traditionally and culturally prevailed in our country regarding physical disability over centuries. The College had not engaged with it as an issue. Apart from the educational tools of Braille, daisy players and recordings and some computer enabled software for the Visually Challenged students, which were obligatory for a HEI to offer under compulsory admission under PH category in the College and the Hostel, there was nothing else. The College did not have any other category of the PwD, and the Govt. of India had not declared the admissibility of various kinds of disability, such as dyslexia and cerebral palsy. With a change in governance in 2009 came a change in ways of imagining the space for the differently-abled. Working as a catalyst in this transformation of space, the first student of the College on a wheelchair came in and the College was compelled to think seriously about the pragmatics of physical access.

4. The Practice: Designing a barrier-free environment is a passionate engagement and a labor of love. No space may be left out. It becomes a special kind of challenge when it is to be worked through in an old heritage building like this College, which has many constraints of construction imposed by civic and urban heritage bodies and old and worn-down structures. The external space has been laid with track-tiles right from the gate of the College. Ramps were built at every change of level after working on the routes of access. Fences and railings were put on raised walks from where earlier VH students had regularly fallen. Toilets were revamped and redesigned with cubicles for orthopaedically-challenged members.

Internal spaces posed more problems to resolve. The grand library in three floors was fitted with a lift and through that to the new Museum and Archives and the Translation and Translation Studies Centre. The first floor Seminar Room which could not be made accessible through installing a lift was fitted with teleconferencing facilities to enable a student on wheelchair on the ground floor AV room, to present her work in the Seminar Room and have an interaction with her peers and others. .

In tandem with the infrastructure comes the issue of visibility of PwD in higher education and the need to draw out more such women to public spaces. The College introduced a need-blind admission policy which attracted potential learners from marginalized sections including the PwD. The College went beyond the fixed quota of Hostel seats to accommodate PwD candidates. Full and partial fee waivers were granted as per need. The VH students were shifted to a section of the Hostel where their rapid evacuation could be ensured in case of natural disasters. The College declared the policy of distribution of CD players and subsequently, notebooks from the university to individual students. A bus and car has been procured for the transportation of the PwD to various events all over the University, colleges and the city. Transport is also provided to VH students by the College for safety, during the winter semester final exam as it gets dark by the time the evening shift is over. Central to the development of the infrastructure is its optimum utilization. The College appoints a Mobility Training instructor for a two week Orientation Program for its VH students when the co-ordinates of direction and location are taught, so that the students can navigate in the College along the track-tile paths. Students are taught to use the computers upgraded with the latest programs and technology in the Enabling Unit set up under UGC guidelines. Sports and Cultural festivals are organized by the College in which students with disabilities from all over the University participate. The College is working actively on various governmental initiatives to ensure additional skill development for employability after the MOU signed by the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment and the National Skill Development Corporation.

Awareness of special needs of the differently-abled is created through targeted programs by the Equal Opportunity Cell and the NSS Unit of the College. A large number of student volunteers in the NSS program are sensitized to the special needs of the differently abled and are doing commendable work through blind-reading programs and as assistance escorts. Student cultural programs have integrated the differently-abled across a process of accommodation.

Constraints: The only constraint is that of not having enough time to compensate for years of neglect of the differently-abled or enough space to accommodate students beyond a point.

Limitation: Like all assistance programs this too fosters a dependency factor which is disconcerting in the context of what lies ahead for these young women in life, in a society where such assistance is not easily forthcoming, either in terms of infrastructure or awareness. Many of them are already rejected and abandoned by their natal families. They receive no support whatsoever and are dependent on welfare schemes. It has been observed that self-reliance enabled by technology and other navigational and access aids is not easily accepted by the differently-abled students. For instance, there is resistance to the use of the white-stick and the notion of having to take online examinations, that is, without writers. Sometimes, there is a sense of entitlement to the facilities without reciprocated responsibility towards themselves.

5. Evidence of Success: In the year 2013, the two top awards of the College, one for the Outstanding Student and the other for All Round Excellence, went to visually-challenged students competing with all students and not in the category. One of them went on to receive the Shankar Dayal Sharma Award for All Round Excellence from the University of Delhi, again competing with general students. The other cleared her NET exam even while she was a student of MA Part I. The increase in the number of differently-enabled students in the College is already a mark of its success. Even with centralized admissions, there is an acknowledgement in the University of the College as a preferred destination. Students are enthusiastic about competing in the various events of the University. They write their own scripts and perform them with confidence in public and participate in sports events. In the year 2015, the College has set itself the theme of Visibility of Disability and would like to project high-profile role models as inspirational and aspirational figures. On College Day, the famous disability activist Mr. Javed Abidi was invited as the Chief Guest. He congratulated the College for having passed his own stringent and critical assessment standards for access, as he self-navigated through the College. On Sports Day, Mr. Navin Gulia an adventure sportsman and motivator on the wheel chair, was invited as the Chief Guest. He addressed students from the playground of the College to waves of applause as he spoke about his disability and the determination to soar above it.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required: The lack of awareness among construction industry contractors and workers about meeting specifications professionally spelt out is a major problem. If the work is not supervised to the last detail by experts or aware people, there are rough edges because there is no understanding of the nature of the work. That is why track-tiles on the pavements of Delhi streets run straight into trees and other obstructions instead of going around them. Apart from the usual financial resources required for a complete overhaul of access systems and technological up-gradation on a continual basis, resources of imagination are required to engage creatively with resolving the bottlenecks encountered.
7. Notes (optional): The most important requirements are compassion, vision and will.

Best Practice II

1. Title of the Practice

Walking the Extra Mile: Enabling Students with Financial Support

2. Goal: To help realize dreams, mundane and grand, of the young women around us. In a society where women's dreams die young, the College exults in giving wings to fly for those who wish to soar. Thus the aim of the College here is to help young women who need some hand-holding in terms of financial assistance in order to realize the possible and their own potential. Families who encourage women to go out in the world are often unable to meet the financial requirements of that condition. The College in such cases walks the extra mile with them. The College also considers financial support to achievers as an incentive and reward for individual initiatives and significant achievements beyond curricular goals.
3. The Context: The College has a student profile which cuts across a wide range of economic conditions, not necessarily limited to those who come from special categories covered under the Government and the University policies of affirmative action. Girls from families of street vendors, small farmers, factory workers, auto-rickshaw drivers and those employed in the unorganized sectors seek admission but turn away unable to bear the cost. The College to enable admission, has to intervene on the spot if it wishes these girls to continue with their education. Though the notion of financial assistance only to students with a defined income parameter is a social and institutional obligation and responsibility which the College readily meets, it is a limited concept. While assessing candidates to receive aid from the College, the Committee has found that there are many who cannot furnish income certificates and others who fall outside the parameters defined as and when. However, they too require assistance. There are several contexts in which the College has extended support in the last 4-5 years, recognizing the dynamism of the requirement that may arise and needs to be decided on a case to case basis.

4. The Practice:

- Need Blind Admission Policy-Though many institutions offer merit and need-based scholarships and freeships to students, these are disbursed once the academic session has begun and the student has already secured admission. A need-blind admission policy has been formulated to target those aspirants who would be unable to complete the admission process if they could not pay their dues at the time of admission. It ensures that every student who is eligible as per the admission criteria set by the College is admitted and the College facilitates the payment of the fee partially or fully, as the case may be, with information to the Student Aid Committee. When the Committee meets on disbursement of Student Aid, such students' fee waivers/discounts are factored into the total disbursement.
- Financial Assistance is annually provided to 350 students approximately, under the Student Aid program of the College. The duly notified call for applications is answered by hundreds of students, with back up documents. These are scrutinized under income parameters which emerge from the applications and the slabs fixed for proportionate support. Students who do not qualify under the fixed parameters may represent their case for consideration of financial support with their papers in person to the Principal. The forms of financial assistance are as follows:
 - Full fee waivers in College and Hostel, or both in dire cases of need are under the direct supervision of the administration with information to the Student Aid Committee. The circumstances of the case are studied before full waiver is given as it runs into over a lakh.
 - Financial support in case of decease of an earning parent is considered by the College, regardless of the family income, in case a student represents her case.
 - Financial help for extraordinary endeavor, as in the case of a student who required a very large amount to enable her to register to climb Mount Everest, is subject to the approval by the GB. The GB sanctioned the amount and enabled her to register and plan. Later, the College helped to find sponsors for her expedition.

- Financial support to travel to recognized bodies as a College representative on individual initiative, is provided on application and if found suitable by the College. Thus a student might want to participate in the United Nations Meet abroad and is selected to do so. She may approach the College for finances as she would be a representative of the College. The College may consider her case and support her financially with some component of her expenses, subject to the approval of the GB.
 - Financial support to outstanding sportswomen to travel to national tournaments by air during examination period, for paucity of time has been disbursed by the College in students' interest and institutional interest.
 - Financial support towards registration fee for students who are accepted by recognized academic bodies to present papers in international seminars/conferences is given by the College to encourage its undergraduates to raise the bar for themselves. Receiving such support has become a reward and recognition in itself for students who repeat the attempt or others who emulate them.
 - Financial and infrastructural support to victims of domestic violence abandoned by family, is given by the College in dire cases, to align with its vision to empower and enable women to complete their education and become economically and emotionally self-reliant.
 - Financial waivers to the differently-abled has been a College policy even before the University directed the policy of such waivers in colleges and hostels since 2013.
- Prizes: Prizes for paper presentations in academic societies as incentive and reward, impels students to propel themselves, just a little more. Substantial Prizes for presentations in the competitive Centenary Decade event of Round Table Conference on Gandhi for merit and incentive, has been introduced since 2014. The nature of the event has promoted research and presentation skills among students and mentorship among faculty. Prizes and Scholarships instituted by faculty, alumnae and staff of the College has been a wide-spread practice over the decades. A large volume of small endowments have sustained student financial assistance annually.
 - Grants: The Centenary Decade Research Grant to Undergraduate Students for Innovative and Original work has been announced from the next academic session 2015, in view of the spurt in student motivation and interest in undertaking and presenting their research in the peer group.

- Internship in the College: Internship in the College Office/Library on a stipend during vacations on request, is available to enable a student to earn a small amount in a safe environment. The College permits a paid internship for a very limited number of applicants. This stipend may even permit a student to pursue her hobby. There is a certain sense of achievement for the College to enable a student who does not want to burden her family in order to indulge her passion.
A student, in extraordinary circumstances, who receives full waiver and sustenance allowance from the College, may be advised to contribute her services to the College during vacation, if she is unable to return home, to promote a sense of self-worth and self-esteem.
- Any Other need in which a requisition is made to the College is assessed on its merits. Funds have not been a constraint as they are earmarked under 10% of College receipts, 10% of tax benefits and from other private donors like the Kul Vikram Trust.

5. Evidence of Success: The possibility of being heard in times of need for a young girl and the assurance that she is secure to pursue her education, is a huge confidence and character building prop which promotes hope, trust and belief in the institution and its systems. It inculcates a sense of responsibility in the student and encourages the virtue of gratitude. The sense that she is cared for and appreciated for what she is and encouraged to be more, takes her forward and the College has seen success in both tangible and intangible ways.

The need blind admission policy has encouraged girls from poor families falling within the admission eligibility criteria, to pursue their dream of education in numbers that are growing in the College. They approach the administration in the confidence that they will be admitted without any delay ending an agonizing wait for, or lack of finances.

Support to students going for international conferences has also seen a growth in numbers who want to do the same. The depreciation of the rupee has not acted as a deterrent.

Our student has gone on from the Everest to climb more peaks after her initial selection and she has also found other sponsors. The student who was supported by the College to make her initial foray into the international scene is the recipient of a scholarship from the French Government and is on challenging internship assignments.

Another student is working in a managerial position with The Royal Society of Chemistry in Bengaluru.

A victim of violence who the College supported has passed her B.A. in Political Science with a first division and is now preparing for the Civil Services and also working.

Our dreamer learnt the drums.

The true success of the financial support lies in the fact that students are encouraged to give rein to their imagination and dreams knowing that they will find support if they so need. This has led to an exuberance and vitality in the ambience of the College which bodes well for the institution as well as for society and is indicative of self-confidence and courage to explore their own potential.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required: On this issue, two kinds of attitudinal positions have been observed from time to time. One is a tendency to mislead the administration on the nature of the need at the time of admission. The other is a sense of entitlement in the expectation that financial assistance will continue as a result of the College's policy, regardless of the reciprocal effort and may be taken for granted by the student. The College has thus put in place an undertaking and condition that the assistance will continue only if the student has the minimum attendance requirement, and that she has fulfilled all conditions to pass to the next year. Also, she should not have any pending disciplinary charges or proceedings against her.

7. Notes (Optional): A number of private donors like the Kul Vikram Trust may be mobilized through personal networks and credentials, but the funds should be disbursed through collective decision and information and utilization record maintained.

- Assignments and tests
- discussing the assignment/test performance with each student individually.

36. SWOC - Analysis of the Department and Future plans:

Strengths

- Academic Flexibility: Within the constraints of a syllabus set by the University, the department has striven to introduce practical components of courses over the years. The establishment of state of the art computer laboratories has facilitated the introduction of the above in courses related to information technology and accounting. The department also offers job-oriented optional courses related to finance and marketing.

- Student Assessment: The department carries out ongoing assessment of students through assignments, group presentations and discussions, class tests and quizzes and an active tutorial system that ensures personal teacher-student interaction in addressing course-related issues.
- Benchmark: The department traces the progress of every batch of students by analyzing their performance in the University examinations from the inception of the course to its conclusion and making a general comparison every year to the performance of students of a few other colleges with a similar profile to ours.
- Our findings over the years indicate that students generally show an improvement in performance over time and also evolve into more mature and rounded young adults through their participation in academic and other activities not directly connected with the course.
- Academic Activities (Extra-curricular): Paper presentations by students, faculty paper presentation sessions within the Department and exposure to eminent resource persons in extension lectures, seminars etc. organized by the department.
- Pedagogical Methods: The department blends conventional methods i.e. classroom lectures and the use of the blackboard with computer-mediated methods i.e. Power Point Presentations. Students have over the years been taken on educational tours to places like the Office of the Registrar of Companies, the Delhi Stock Exchange, Snapdeal.com and Anand, Gujarat.
- Pass Percentage: The department has shown a progressive improvement in pass percentages over time. Today, over 95% of students graduate annually.
- Counseling: The tutorial slot allows for teacher-student interaction on academic and other matters. The faculty assists students in taking decisions related to further studies and career choices.

Weaknesses

- Infrastructural Constraints: The size of classrooms relative to the size of the classes is less than optimal. Teacher audibility and blackboard visibility are a problem at times.
- Large Classes: The size of the class creates a sense of psychological distance from the students.
- Non-Permanent Faculty: The large turnover of ad-hoc faculty affects continuity.

Opportunities

- Career Counseling: As almost all students of the Department are interested in pursuing a career, the faculty is gearing to adopt a more proactive approach to career guidance and providing job placements through active collaboration with the Career Guidance and Placement Cell of the College.
- Information on Further Studies: With increasing interest in the pursuit of higher studies, the faculty hopes to be able to guide students to make appropriate choices in this regard.

Challenges

- To help students to improve language/mathematical/analytical skills
- Encourage the use of technology in the teaching/learning process Students need to be guided in the correct methods of creating computer-mediated presentations
- Developing skills in paper presentations, group discussions etc. given the job oriented nature of the course
- Creating a database of alumna. This is a project the Department has already initiated.

Strengths of the department comprise its faculty and students, infrastructure and the academic program itself. The faculty members are interested in diverse fields such as Artificial Intelligence, Approximation Algorithms, Operating Systems and Cloud Computing, Data Mining, Software Engineering, Pattern Classification and Recognition. Most faculty members are actively involved in research and keep themselves academically updated by attending workshops and seminars. They are also part of curriculum development committees in the University of Delhi.

The Department has five well equipped computer labs with internet connectivity. These Labs are upgraded on a continual basis and either licensed or open-source software are used for practical work.

The curriculum is a well-structured academic program updated frequently by the University to meet the demands of the corporate sector. The course has high employability potential. Many students are recruited annually through campus placements. Some students pursue post graduate courses at national and international universities.

Weaknesses: There is no scope for flexibility in the course taught since it is designed by University of Delhi for all colleges alike.

Opportunities: With Information Technology being at the helm, the department has several opportunities to tie up with the industry and offer due and adequate exposure to its students.

Challenges: Teaching and keeping ourselves updated in a field that is continuously evolving and tap the potential of tie up with industry.

36. SWOC- Analysis of the Department and Future plans:

Strengths

The Department has a highly qualified and professional faculty that maintains a strong focus on classroom teaching, research guidance and extracurricular activities.

Students strongly feel that the faculty members are easily accessible and they take an active interest in their co-curricular and extracurricular activities. Besides taking an active part in the corporate life of the College, teachers have published a number of papers in national and international journals. They have also presented papers and delivered lectures in various international and national forums. Some teachers have been engaged in post graduate teaching and supervision and examination of M.A./ M.Phil. dissertations and Ph.D. theses. Teachers are also continually engaged in the process of undergraduate and post graduate curriculum development. Some teachers have also been members of Departmental Research Committees of the University.

Students of the department strike a positive balance between their academic and co-curricular interests. They have held key positions within the College Union.

Students have participated in the South Asian Economic Students' Meet (SAESM) since 2006-2007. They have bagged prizes for Best Paper and one won awards such as that of 'Budding Economist' etc.

Students actively participate in the Golden Key initiative. Anisha Gulati was selected for the Best New Member Award by 'Golden Key International Honour Society', University of Delhi Chapter, 2013-14.

Students have figured in the Principal's Honour Roll on College Day for their extraordinary achievements in academic and co-curricular activities. Students have been recipients of the Outstanding Student of the College and All Round Excellence Awards.

The students' academic society in the department is a very active one. The office bearers of the society are elected through a democratic election process. The society organizes regular academic events like guest lectures by eminent speakers, workshops, field trips, paper presentations, debates and discussions. The students of the department actively participate in events organized by other institutions and bring laurels to the College.

SFC meetings held regularly through the academic session facilitate open and healthy interaction between the faculty and students.

The department undertakes personal counseling of students, as and when required.

Weaknesses and Opportunities

The department does not have a regular structured career counseling program per se but faculty members are constantly involved in guiding and mentoring the students for their future pursuits.

The alumni database of the department is limited. The process of strengthening the database is under progress. As a first step in this direction, the department organized its first alumni reunion this year. The department has also formed a group on Facebook for a speedy and wider dissemination of information.

Challenges

Lack of required exposure to Mathematics at the intermediate level, makes it difficult to cater to the needs of such students within the short span of one semester only.

In the absence of readily available study material in Hindi, it becomes difficult to reach out to the mixed ability students groups in the class room.

35. Participation in Institutional Social Responsibility (ISR) and Extension activities:

Students of the department participate in ISR and Extension Activities through units such as NSS, NCC and several other forums.

36. SWOC- Analysis of the Department and Future plans: Strengths

- The Department of English teaches English at various levels ranging from basic, intermediate and advanced to technical writing and literature to a wide spectrum of students from several courses. This varied student body demands on our part diverse pedagogic skills.
- The department has fostered and enhanced the students' research abilities and presentation skills by making them do paper presentations in the seminar period and the literary festival. This has also encouraged the students to go beyond the prescribed syllabus, and to do interdisciplinary work.

- The department has teachers with diverse areas of specialization ranging from theatre and translation to popular culture and cinema. This enables them to bring in interdisciplinary inputs in the classroom.
- The department has, in the past years, made a number of interventions in the undergraduate syllabus of Delhi University with department members as Committee members of both English Honours and B.A. Program courses.
- Department members have been part of editorial boards for text books taught at the undergraduate levels for Allied, B.A. Program and Honours courses.
- The department has always encouraged, through its pedagogical exercises, to promote inclusive teaching as well as remedial teaching to under-privileged students.

Weaknesses

- The department library needs to be developed into a space where all relevant research materials as well as prescribed text books can be brought together for the use of teachers as well as students of the department.
- Teachers' Seminar must be revived to update and strengthen our knowledge and interests. Every semester one person can be assigned the responsibility of coordinating and conducting a few seminars on areas of academic and research interests.

Challenges

- How to make the tutorial periods more productive at the undergraduate level and motivate students to do the assigned work and be prepared for the tutorials.
- How to cater to classes with a heterogeneous composition which comprise students with diverse levels of proficiency in English for instance, a class which has students of different disciplines like Hindi, Sanskrit, Economics and Psychology.

Opportunities

- Given the diverse, heterogeneous composition of the student groups in various disciplines, it would be a good idea to set up a writing lab or center in the College to cater to the specific language needs of the students enrolled in the various disciplines.

37. SWOC- Analysis of the Department and Future plans:

Strengths

- The Course Structure of Hindi Department is inclusive. It deals with Literature, Media, Translation, Linguistics, Poetics and Creative Writing. The department has always laid great focus on innovative pedagogy and new methodology of teaching literature and language.
- Project based learning in Application Courses offered by the department gives an opportunity to the students to get hands-on experience.
- Hindi Sahitya Sabha, the academic association of the department provides various fora to the students to train beyond the regimentations of the syllabus.
- Student-Teacher relationship in our department is very strong. Teachers mentor the students, specially the first generation learners coming from economically weaker sections of the society. The department empowers such students by helping them grow in their own lingual environment.
- Special Hindi Classes are organized for students from the North-East.

Weaknesses

- Lack of language lab is a barrier in innovating or developing linguistic skills.
- Most students lack tech-proficiency and consequently face problems in the employment market.
- Students lack literary orientation which makes it difficult for them to understand finer sensibilities of the subject.

Opportunities

- National Education Policy is making special provisions to encourage Indian Languages. The department views it as an opportune moment for expansion of career opportunities in Hindi.
- Wide Hindi speaking population has compelled corporate sector to open job opportunities in media, advertising, cinema, linguistics, translation and editing. Such opportunities have provided an incentive to study Hindi.
- New course structure (to be implemented from July 2015) diverse in its profile may help students to acquire varied skills.
- Advancement of technology has helped build bridges between languages.
- Besides the job market, the study of literature sensitizes students to the problems of society and empowers them with critical analysis of a particular situation.

Challenges

- We still have a long way to go as the changes required are not very swift.
- There are very few peer-reviewed journals making it difficult to publish our work as per requirement of the day.
- Technology has to be integrated with language teaching to reach its optimal level.

Future plans

- Running of Wall Magazine on regular basis.
- Expanding the scope of Sahitya Sabha activities.
- Journal of the Department
- Editing and writing workshops
- Career Guidance cell of the Department
- Developing a small Departmental library.

Students of the department participate in ISR and Extension Activities through units such as NSS, NCC and several other forums.

36. SWOC- Analysis of the Department and Future plans:
Strength

- The Department of History has high academic credibility and potential nurtured by its well-read faculty with diverse research interests. Pursuit of research and publishing but at the same time active involvement in curriculum development is the mainstay of the department faculty. Many of them have been Visiting Faculty in the Universities abroad. Several others are Resource Persons at the Refresher and Orientation Courses for the University and College teachers and also coordinators, conveners and organizers of workshops, conferences and seminars.

The constant endeavor to update themselves with the recent readings and research findings is evident from their participation in the Refresher Courses and workshops pertaining to the discipline and the related disciplines.

- Applying research tools and research methodologies, the faculty of the department has devised pedagogical strategies that are both engaging and inspiring for the students. The department encourages blended learning i.e. class room lectures and blackboard teaching combined with audio-visual methods like Power Point Presentations, group discussions and presentations by students.
- Extending beyond the one-way communication of class lectures and to foster student interest in the subject, the lectures and discussions are often organized around maps, photographs and film clips.
- To provide hands-on experience and feel of the discipline, educational trips and excursions are organized to monuments, museums and the archives.
- Added to these, is our rigorous tutorial system that facilitates close interaction between the students and the teachers, inculcates curiosity among students to know more and ask questions related to the subject and other inter-related matters.
- Student-teacher rapport is a major strength of the department. The teachers often take on the role of a counselor to guide the students on various academic issues and beyond.
- Our students come from varied backgrounds but this has not been a limitation. We are proud to have taught first generation learners who have reached high goals in academics and other spheres.
- The results and its comparative analysis within the department and also with other colleges over the years has shown not only improved performance but also a rising, healthy competitive spirit among the students to do even better.
- The student progression is more than satisfactory. Almost all our students pursue post graduate studies in History or other related subjects or opt for professional courses.
- Aspiration is the hallmark of our students, taking them into diverse fields – academics, journalism, law, civil service and many others.

Weakness

- The Semester System is a major limitation to the complete growth and development of our students in terms of writing and analytical skills. Since the semester system lays great emphasis on test and exam based evaluation, it hinders reflection and reading beyond the prescribed text. The fun of reading, learning and exploring is lost.

- The Student Paper Presentations and Discussions every Semester has in some ways helped to counter these limitations. But then the benefit of such an exercise remains confined to only a handful of students.

Challenge

- The biggest challenge is to make the students unlearn the uncritical acceptance of the printed text-book that they acquire in school or to make them understand that pre-digested material in a textbook is not an accepted ideal of scholarship in Social Science.
- Another major challenge is to teach the students to do reference work and write analytically.

Opportunity

- Given the composition of our student body with varied linguistic and cultural backgrounds, different interests and career options, the faculty plans to counsel them in a more sustained manner to achieve their goals.
- The department is also planning to interact actively with its alumna and use them as resource persons for the growth of the department with a focus on experiential learning.

They are encouraged to explore new horizons of Mathematics. It is mandatory for all students and faculty members to attend it and contribute in discussions
- Experts from different institutions/ Universities are also invited to interact with students.
- Every year, the Maths Association organizes Inter College Maths festival 'PARIDHI' in which competitions related with Mathematics, like Mathematical Quiz, Paper Presentations, Mathematical Rangoli, Maths Pictionary, Treasure Hunt, Just A Minute etc. are organized. The festival provides a refreshing, informative, inspiring and productive aura. It witnesses active participation from students of different colleges of University of Delhi.

34. Teaching methods adopted to improve student learning:

- Internal tests are conducted, twice/ thrice per semester as practice sessions.
- Conducting quizzes after completing the portion of each unit.
- Assignment topics are given regularly

36. SWOC- Analysis of the Department:Strengths

- The Department of Mathematics has progressed substantially over the years to make the discipline a preferred choice among students today. Its primary strength is a distinguished faculty that attracts students of high academic calibre.
- The practical component introduced in the curriculum facilitates the students to pursue higher studies in application oriented streams.
- The diversified content of the curriculum opens doors to PG in Operational Research, Applied Operational Research, Pure Mathematics, Statistics and Computers
- Counseling for future prospects and higher studies is readily available to the students by competent faculty.

Weaknesses

- In the absence of science departments, we are unable to gather such students who wish to study science subjects as allied or optional subjects.
- Large size of classes interfere with the possibility of personalized attention for students, especially for slow learners.
- Need for bilingual teaching to students from diverse background is a constraint for the department.

Opportunities:

- The department has initiated Seminar-cum-Lecture Series from January 2015 to give a platform to students to showcase their talent. Here students are free to choose any topic (usually mathematical) and discuss it with peer group under the guidance of faculty members. It has motivated students to participate in intra and inter college competitive events.
- The continuous changes in syllabus compels faculty to keep themselves updated.

Challenges:

- As a College for women only, coupled with off-campus location, we are unable to attract the best talent.
- Our students have to compete with the colleges where Science courses are offered.

Future Plans:

- To propose inclusion of science subjects within Allied Courses.
- To upgrade our Seminar-cum-lecture series to include students/ research scholars from other colleges.

36. SWOC- Analysis of the Department and Future plans:

Strengths:

The primary strength of the BMMMC Department lies in its autonomy to design, teach, examine and revise the Course as per its assessment, at regular intervals, since IP College is the only one in the University to offer the Course. The Department is headed by the Principal assisted by the Coordinator, both of whom are qualified in theory and praxis of the subject, and manifest its interdisciplinary nature being themselves appointed in the departments of English and Philosophy respectively. The Course design remains focused on the ground reality of the developments in the media and communication industry. The curriculum is focused on imparting technical skills in various areas of mass communication and mass media, theoretical knowledge and perspectives which determine their nature and use, and a historical and social understanding of their dynamics, which is so important in a metamorphosing, unequal, globalized world where the power and ownership of the means of communication may change the fate of nations. The course remains interdisciplinary and aims at producing a practitioner with a critical and analytical mind, who is holistically trained in theory and the praxis of communication and has hands-on training in a wide range of media technology and media practices. Faculty is recruited as per qualification and technical expertise to dovetail into the specialized demands of the course components.

The Department has the infrastructural wherewithal to make required facilities available to run the course. The college is a proud owner of a well-equipped studio, editing bays, production nodes, cameras, and the latest software which is updated regularly. Equipment is upgraded annually. The students of such a course are presented with an endless field for their hands-on training. Apart from their location training, they contribute to record and film the events of the College as an in-house media unit. There is 100% placement for students graduating from the Course in all fields of Media and Communication. They are in Cinema, Advertising professionals, TV reporters and anchors, journalists and editors in print. Many pursue higher studies in prestigious international schools like London School of Economics, Columbia USA, Westminster UK, New York University etc. and have gone on to make their mark internationally. Some want to enter academics and policy making.

Weaknesses:

There is no provision in the University for a post-graduate specialized program for graduating students. The faculty being contractual and qualified as per the course requirements, is sometimes difficult to identify and appoint. Special efforts are undertaken in this direction.

Opportunities:

The lack of permanent and fixed faculty prevents stagnation and permits the course the dynamism which defines the contours of the domain of media, communication and technological leaps and changes. The Course does not have to be designed as per available pedagogical expertise and instead can source the expertise to teach the revised elements. The theoretical components can be taught by the permanent faculty of the College located in its many departments, thus also providing them with an opportunity to apply theory in a specialized domain with its orientation. This presents a very exciting and challenging proposition, available right on the College campus.

Challenges:

The new nomenclature of the course under directions of the University of Delhi, the format required by the Choice Based Credit System and the restoration of the Self-Financed nature of the Course have shaped this course. The erstwhile B.A.(Hons) Mass Media and Mass Communication (BMMMC) has yielded its core elements introduced in 2010, to the erstwhile B.A.(Hons) Journalism and Mass Communication (BJMC) in the merger of 2013-14, under directions from the University, a course now renamed as B.A.(Hons) Journalism. The situation arising from these transitions has been converted into opportunity in the design of the new course (BMMMC), suggested not only by the changed nomenclature, but also by the rapidly changing world of available media and the specialized ways in which communication needs to be explored to meet the challenges of a nation on the move.

Thrust areas foregrounded on the national agenda and the prospect of availing outreach policies and programs of the Government of India, in the areas of knowledge application and skill development, have been important inputs in the formation of this syllabus. If implemented as envisaged, the Course will revolutionize the domain of the discipline and its pedagogy. The College would like to offer PG specializations in the area and has already completed the civil work of building its infrastructure, adding another studio and related production areas.

36. SWOC analysis of the department and Future plans:

Strengths

The Department of Philosophy has a highly qualified teacher profile. Some faculty members have additional qualifications in Law and Masters in Journalism and Mass Communications. The department carries out ongoing assessment of students through assignments, group presentations and discussions, class tests and quizzes and an active tutorial system that ensures intensive teacher-student interaction to address course related issues. The progress of every batch of students is tracked by analyzing their results and comparing them every year with the performance of students from other colleges with a similar profile as ours. This exercise has helped highlight the academic distinctions of our students.

While our students have excelled in academics, they have been actively involved in extra-curricular activities of the College. Several students have held key positions in the College Union and have figured on the Principal's Honor Roll.

The department over the years has encouraged students to write quality papers and participate in International Conferences. Six students in the past years have participated in such conferences at Bangkok, Prague, Istanbul, Oxford and London. The department provides adequate academic exposure to students through extension lectures and seminars, national and international conferences that have proved to be productive for student learning.

The department blends conventional methods i.e. classroom lectures and the use of blackboard with computer-mediated methods i.e. Power Point Presentations for teaching purposes. Students are taken on educational tours to places like the Lotus Temple, art galleries, museums and monuments to expound on the philosophical principles underlying their histories. The faculty assists its students in taking decisions with regard to further studies and career choices.

Weaknesses:

The department has observed that the syllabus taught should be reviewed and upgraded every three years to make it more contemporary and relevant to meet the emerging challenges of the job market.

Opportunities:

Philosophy is truly interdisciplinary and lies on the cutting edge of subjects, providing an entry into each and every aspect of our personal, professional and public life. It provides opportunities to its students and teachers to explore and enhance career opportunities in diverse fields like Law, Media, MBA and Entrepreneurship.

Challenges:

- Philosophy is not taught in schools and special efforts have to be made in novel ways to attract students to the course. Guidance at the Help Desk has helped good students to study Philosophy at the College level.
- To help students improve language and analytical skills
- Creating an Alumna database is a project which the Department has initiated.

35. SWOC- Analysis of the Department and Future plans:

Strength:

The Department is committed to enabling its students to develop a reflexive relationship with the political environment they inhabit. Through our specialization in fields such as Political Philosophy, Indian Politics and International Relations, we impart skills that initiate students into an informed engagement with politics. This has resulted in an impressive record of our graduates succeeding in fields such as academics, journalism and civil services.

Our success is the result of a consistent effort by the faculty to invest in the learning curve of students in a variety of ways. Classroom instruction is complemented with alternative media and methods, including film and presentations. In addition, we try our best to creatively push the limits of the syllabi by bringing different papers in conversation with each other, not only in the classroom, but also through regular talks that speak to a variety of papers taught in the program. We also encourage our students to read beyond the prescribed material and familiarize them with literature from allied disciplines. To this end, we have taken the initiative to maintain a small library that students can access at the level of the department. As a result, many of our students have demonstrated a keen interest in participating in activities such as paper presentations both in and outside College. Faculty members have mentored such students and helped them develop their ideas and arguments. Furthermore, this mentorship has extended to contexts such as guidance for pursuing higher studies as well. Importantly, the department has demonstrated an enduring commitment to addressing the problems faced by students from less privileged backgrounds. In this regard, Hindi-medium students are paid special attention in tutorial sessions, especially designed for these students, with activities such as translations, co-reading. This extra attention is of great support to the Hindi medium students in building their comfort and developing their interest in the discipline even when there is a general dearth of readings in Hindi.

Outside the department, we have offered a variety of papers that have been received very well across other allied social sciences and professional courses like journalism. This has contributed to our reputation as a department which is committed to encouraging students to develop critical faculties. Indeed, our students have demonstrated such skills in non-academic contexts as well. By meaningfully participating in a range of co-curricular activities, students of our department have shown the way to cross-fertilize insights from different contexts.

Weaknesses:

Along with building on our strengths in the future, our department hopes to address some weaknesses that we find worthy of consideration. Most significantly, we hope to invest more effort into imparting the skill of academic writing. While the existing system of regular written assessment is helpful, we recognize the need to evolve methods of teaching how to critique, develop and present arguments in a sophisticated way. Such a skill would be especially useful for students who come from less privileged backgrounds and therefore frequently do not already have a very good command over language. Addressing the lack of study material for Hindi-medium students is another challenge that demands immediate attention. Furthermore, we hope to find ways of creating more forums for discussion on matters of contemporary relevance. Amid the rush to finish syllabi, we often find that such spaces get shrunk as term progresses. To address this, perhaps we may institutionalize mechanisms of discussion groups within our pedagogy. Finally, finding the resources for pursuing our own research along with keeping up with teaching commitments remains a challenge, one which we must find ways of surmounting in the interest of the long-term intellectual development of the department.

36. SWOC⁺⁺ Analysis of the Department and Future plans:

Strength:

The Department of Psychology prides itself as one of the first women's college to introduce undergraduate course in Psychology (Hons) in the year 1960. The department has four laboratories cum lecture theatres equipped with the state of the art facilities. Two of our laboratories are air-conditioned and all of them are ICT enabled. The department has twenty three computers for the use of students and faculty.

In addition to an in-house library, the department has an extensive collection of latest psychological tests which are used for both teaching and research purposes. The department boasts of an archival section that houses several old equipment that trace the history of the development of the discipline of Psychology.

The teaching-learning environment in our department focuses on ICT enabled learning and pedagogic innovations such as movie/documentary screening, case studies, role plays etc. An attempt is made to bridge the gap between classroom learning and real-life applications through field visits and experiential learning workshops.

The department encourages student engagement in independent research initiatives. Our students also volunteer for internships and community service programs. We organize regular student enrichment programs such as conferences, seminars, workshops, special lectures etc. with eminent resource persons and subject matter experts. The Department provides a platform for scholarly research activities in the form of research paper presentations, research colloquiums, and academic meets. We promote creative expression in students, which is evident from the Annual Departmental Magazine, Udaan.

The teachers are actively involved in curriculum development at the University level. The faculty specializes in teaching and research in diverse areas of Psychology. Our faculty prides itself with on-field experience adding to quality of teaching. The department undertakes peer-group learning initiatives, by organizing workshops and training sessions for the faculty. The expertise of various teachers is being harnessed to its potential through a rich environment of academic exchange. For continued up-gradation of skills, the teachers regularly engage in Faculty Development Programs conducted within and outside the University.

Most students from the department of Psychology pursue higher education and research. Many students have gone on to become excellent professionals, making invaluable contributions in fields like Mental Health, Social work, Law, Research, Management and many others.

Weakness

The curriculum structure and time constraints of the semester mode in which the University operates does not allow for the implementation of more innovative and diverse pedagogical possibilities. The department also needs to highlight its research initiatives to further inspire and motivate the academic community at large.

Opportunities

Being a discipline that deals with human behavior, there is a huge opportunity in imparting life-skills training to young adults thereby empowering them to meet the challenges in everyday life. There is an immense potential in creating greater opportunities for student interactions with professionals, practitioners and experts to promote field/industry interface and harness possibilities for greater employability. Opportunity lies in undertaking structured collaborative work with NGOs for various community outreach programs. Organization of national conferences and seminars to provide exposure to contemporary research activities in varied fields of Psychology is one of the continued efforts of the department. There is opportunity for academic growth in promoting interdisciplinary research through interdepartmental research projects. Opportunities lie in harnessing the legacy, positive energy, and concerns shared by the retired faculty to further the progression of the department.

Challenges

The department faces a challenge in terms of space constraints particularly for activity-based projects, interviews etc. Challenge lies in motivating the students to engage in out-reach activities in the light of the pressing demands of the semester system. Another challenge faced is the limited availability of resource material for the differently abled and Hindi speaking students studying Psychology.

Future Plans

Our future plans include identifying sources of funding for projects such as the development of Indian norms for specific Psychological tests. Proposals are being formulated for the introduction of self- financed certificate courses such as personality development, stress management etc. The department is working towards bringing out a journal to provide students a platform for showcasing their research initiatives. The department proposes the formation of advocacy groups on various issues like mental health awareness, mental retardation, learning disability, etc. The department is also exploring the possibility of undertaking structured collaborative work with NGOs for various community outreach programs, internships, and research projects. Departmental level guidance committee and peer support groups will be created to cater to diverse student needs and to promote student engagement in a diverse range of activities.

The documentary aimed to ignite the minds of young students towards destruction of our planet, our HOME.
 - Talk on 'Human Environments: Past and Present' by Prof. Mahesh Rangarajan, Director, Nehru Memorial Museum & Library in August, 2014. The talk offered an introduction to environmental history of India and the world and highlighted the organic connection our forefathers had with nature and natural resources. They witnessed the interaction of plants, animals and the abiotic components of the environment in the YBP open air laboratory which was an immensely valuable learning experience. A documentary on the success of YBP and a similar project in Delhi (Aravalli Biodiversity Park) in protecting Delhi's urban ecosystem was also shown to the students at the YBP. Students presented a field report on their visit to showcase their learning in the field.

7. SWOC- Analysis and Future Plans:

Strengths:

The Course facilitates interaction with all other departments of the College. The curriculum includes features of national importance and the same have been adopted by the College for practical application.

Weaknesses:

The Course is limited to one semester and has now been categorized as a Qualifying Course. As a result there is no direct induction to the Course.

Opportunities:

The Course can engage the entire college in projects & activities for optimizing environmental consciousness and documenting existing green activities leading to a Green College!

Challenges:

Interdisciplinary and trans-departmental courses, projects and activities come with their own inherent challenges that need to be overcome.

Future Plans:

A course based newsletter is being conceived to disseminate environmental awareness among the students. A student-community engagement program has been conceived with respect to communities staying around the College and/or adjacent to River Yamuna and the Delhi Ridge (the two lifelines of Delhi).

Name of the Course: Family and Child Welfare (FCW) and Family and Child Development (FCD)

The students of B.A. Program opt for FCW as a Discipline Course and FCD as an Application Course. As part of their curriculum, the students have to do a few Projects. The details related to these are as follows:

- The students of Semester IV of B.A. Program opting for undertake the study of underprivileged sections of Working Women as a mandatory project. On an average 25 students are engaged in the project. Since each student pursues individual cases, rich data is collected annually. The students also hold discussions with these women on female foeticide, reproductive health and hygiene, cleanliness, stress management etc. to make them aware of their rights and privileges and contribute to their upliftment and empowerment. The students also visit Organizations, working in the field of women and child development in order to understand the functioning of these Organizations and the tasks undertaken. The Organizations usually visited by the students include: Bal Sahyog, Prayas, Maternal and Child Health Centre (MCH), Kilkari Home, Palna, SOS village, Anganwadi etc.
- Students of Semester VI opting for FCW intern in a child care setting for a duration of one month in various pre-schools like Usha Ganguli Shishu Vihar (DU), Euro Kids, Shemrock, Mother's Pride etc. The students apply the theoretical methods of child care into practical child care services. An important aspect of their internship comprises: learning to design and develop audio-visual aids for children in all domains of development vis-à-vis physical-motor, cognitive, language, emotional and creative development. With a focus on play based approach to teaching, students learn to develop elaborate teaching-learning material in the form of educational aids like flash cards, flannel graph, puzzles and mazes, models, charts, puppets etc. Workshops are also organized to impart skills to students for making effective teaching-learning material. Such training facilitates learning and skill development and are particularly helpful if the students opt for teaching as a career.

The students who choose FCD as application course do a project related to different stages of human development, namely, infancy, childhood (early and middle), adolescence and adulthood (early, middle and late). For this, they intern with NGOs, working in the fields related to development and empowerment of women, children, people with disability and elderly. Depending on the interests of the target beneficiaries and the organization, the students are engaged in a variety of activities like teaching children, theater, dance and other activities to enhance life skills. Some students also visit the slums to impart non-formal teaching to children and/or women. Few students were also engaged in a project to create the Child Care Centre in the College.

Applying the theoretical concepts to practical training, the students are sensitized to issues of community development and to understand their role as an individual and as members of the society.
