

The Principal in her leadership role is a visible presence in all the programs and development she has conceptualized, initiated and executed, since the change of governance from July 2009. This year she set the theme of "Visibility of Disability", which envisages visits by achievers with disability as invited guests of the College on its prominent events, to serve as inspirational role models who explore the possibilities of the body and the spirit. The College is working actively on various governmental initiatives to ensure additional skill development for employability after the MOU signed by the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment and the National Skill Development Corporation in March 2015.

A very special moment came In the year 2013 when the two top awards of the College, the Outstanding Student and the one for All – Round Excellence, went to visually-challenged students competing with all students outside the category. One of them went on to receive the Shankar Dayal Sharma Award for All-round Excellence from the University of Delhi, again competing with general students. The other cleared her NET exam , while still a student of M.A. Previous year!
