

The Indian Music Society : Alaap

Current Advisor: Dr. Sarabjeet Kaur

Alaap, the Indian Music Society of Indraprastha College for Women, University of Delhi has been actively participating in music events since its inception. The society has tremendously flourished over the years and is considered to be one of the best music societies in the University. There have been fruitful and much awaited workshops for the students under the guidance of brilliant music maestros like Ustead Iqbal Ahmed Khan (Khalifa of Delhi Gharana) and Mr. Sudhanshu Sharma. The society holds auditions every year to extract fresh talent and encourage students with musical prowess. The society not only actively engages itself into inter-college music events but also performs at various in-house events like Independence Day, Farewell, Annual College fest etc. The annual Indian Music Society fest- Ninaad, every year witnesses huge number of enthusiastic participants from all over the University. Alaap believes in perseverance, experimentation, team work and undertakes rigorous skill building of its members. The society has won various inter-college group and solo singing competitions. Alaap has been constantly supported, appreciated and encouraged by the college authorities for all its efforts. We wish to keep the embers of our love for classical music alive throughout our lives. With consistent hard work and determination, we wish to bring more laurels to the society as well as the college.
